Prices, Un-Employment 'Stable'—Administration

Government Believes Tax Cuts Will Stimulate U.S. Business

WASHINGTON (INS)—An administration spokesman testified Monday the government believes that both prices and un-employment are now stabilized and that tax cuts will stimulate business, thus bolstering federal revenue.

The testimony was given by deputy budget director Rowland Hughes at a closed session of the joint Congressional Committee on the Economic Report, which begins public hearings Tuesday on President Eisenhower's 656 billion dollar spending program for the 1955 fiscal year.

Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey will be the first witness at the open hearings.

Rep. Jesse Wolcott (R-Mich.), chairman of the joint committee, summarized Hughes' testimony as follows:

1. He quoted the Budget Bureau official as saying that the number of un-employed, now estimated at about two and one-half million, would remain at or near that level and not exceed three million "in the foreseeable future."

2. Wolcott also reported that Hughes said a study of the price situation indicates increasing stability.

3. The committee chairman said that Hughes, speaking for the Eisenhower administration, declared tax cuts would encourage both production and consumption.

and thereby offset the loss in revenue the government otherwise would experience as a result of reductions now in effect.

The Federal Reserve Board said meanwhile that preliminary reports indicate U. S. industrial output slipped in January for the sixth straight month since production hit an all-time high last July. The board said, however, that the January decline appeared to be "slight."

Wolcott said he was "convinced that the Budget Bureau" was perfectly safe in assuming that the rise in un-employment had been halted and that he also shared the view that federal revenue will not experience further drops.

Federal Deficit
Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) disagreed with the belief that tax receipts will not be reduced. Douglas predicted that government revenue will be appreciably lower in the next five months because of income tax cuts, and said he is "dubious" about administration hopes to lower the federal deficit from its present level of 9.4 billion to 3.3 billion by the end of this fiscal year.

Meanwhile, government economists studied new developments in the nation's employment picture.

These included the Baltimore and Ohio railroad's announcement that it is recalling 1,500 workers this week from among the 11,000 employees laid off in recent weeks. The railroad said the recalled workers will be employed principally in the repair and maintenance shops.

The government noted also that furloughed workers are being recalled by some New England shoe manufacturers, several New York apparel and textile firms, and by the Crosley television plant in Cincinnati.

Balmy High Temps Almost New Mark

The Weather Bureau described Monday's balmy weather as "very unusual" but said that it was not a record for Feb. 1.

The 57 degree high was two degrees short of the 1935 high of 59. Most Lincolinites didn't seem to miss the two degrees, they just basked in the warmth. The Bureau also reported that January was the driest it has been for that month in Lincoln since 1928. Only .15 of an inch of moisture was recorded. The average is .32 of an inch.

Omaha fared little better, it was reported, with the driest January since 1943. Only .24 of an inch was recorded instead of the .61 normal.

High temperatures in the 50s were forecast for Nebraska Tuesday.

And the forecast indicated the Ground Hog has a mighty good chance to see his shadow in store for him Tuesday, traditional Groundhog Day. The weather bureau said skies would be generally fair.

If the Ground Hog gets caught in a beam of sunlight, folklore says, there'll be six more weeks of winter.

Objections, Fears Voiced On Road Weight Limits

Spring Posting Of Poorer Paving Hit By Many At Public Hearing

By B. R. ROTHENBERGER
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska truckers, dependent businesses and depression-fearful communities raised a unanimous warning against a state highway department posting of sub-grade sections of bituminous highway Monday.

They foresaw substantial economic penalties in the department's proposed reduction of load weight limits in keeping with the requirement of the 1953 legislature's LB114 for the protection of weak sections of highway during the unfavorable weather of late winter and spring.

Objections and suggestions were raised at a state Capitol hearing before State Highway Engineer L. M. Ress when more than 150 objectors sat through two hours of massed testimony—all of it opposed in degrees to the department's intended action.

There were no interests supporting the state's position. And the hearing was confined to two hours because of a morning pre-organization of opponents who delegated their individual causes to selected spokesmen.

Range Of Positions
Their positions ranged from suggestions to ignore the law to promises of full compliance with pleas to "work out a better solution if you can," but in any event post the roads for periods as briefly as possible and only where urgently essential.

One alternative was proposed by Einar Viren, Omaha attorney representing the Swanson produce and meat processing company. He suggested that Nebraska follow the precedent of the railroads and the State of Montana.

"They order slow speed over weak sections instead of lighter loads. Cut truck speeds over the subgrade sections of highway, but allow the weight to go through," he urged.

Ress dismissed the proposal pointing out that it did not conform to Nebraska law. He also questioned it as a remedy.

'More Damaging'
"As a matter of engineering," he said, "I think it has been pretty well demonstrated that equal weights are more damaging to weakened highways at low speeds than at higher speeds. I believe the railroads' purpose in slowing speed is to control against accident to the carrier rather than to protect the road bed."

He touched on the plea for minimum enforcement.

"When we published the first map of subgrade highway sections and set the Feb. 15-April 15 dates for load-lessening it was not with the idea of bringing it all into force for a set period of time. It was rather to get things started. Everything is tentative," he said.

Only 'Necessary'
"The department will not post any section that frequent inspection does not demand nor will it post it any longer than is necessary to protect the taxpayer's investment in the road and the continuation of service of the highway."

But Ress made it clear that portions of Nebraska's flexible highway system had suffered enough over the years of short financing that some amount of load limitation would be necessary even in event of favorable spring weather.

To requests that the department give ample notice of weightlessening orders for designated roads, some asserting that at least a week's notice would be necessary, Ress replied that the department would be limited to between 48 and 72 hours advance notice.

'Today's Chuckle'
A lot of today's troubles arise from workers who don't think and thinkers who don't work.

Water Will Be Plentiful From Dams

Big Structures Stabilize Supply

WASHINGTON (P)—An Army engineer testified Monday that the four big dams on the upper reaches of the Missouri River, when completed, will store enough water to provide for downstream areas through a year of drought.

Brig. Gen. W. E. Potter, Missouri River division engineer at Omaha, told a Senate appropriations subcommittee:

"When we get all the storage in those dams, the Missouri Basin is one basin where the newspapers can put in big ads saying, 'Come to the Missouri Basin; we have plenty of water.'"

The four big multiple-purpose dams now under construction are the Garrison in North Dakota, Oahe and Fort Randall in South Dakota, and Gavins Point in South Dakota and Nebraska. The subcommittee is considering funds for Army civil functions.

Level Maintained
Potter said the storage capacity of Fort Peck Dam in Montana, in operation for years, plus some storage in Fort Randall, was able to maintain sufficient water in the downstream reaches of the Missouri in last year's dry months.

Executed for such stored water.
Potter said the water in the river at Omaha in late summer of 1953 would have been only about one inch above the water intake level.

Potter said the engineers asked $75,775,000 for work in the Missouri Basin for the year starting July 1, but the budget bureau cut this to $73,350,000. For the current year Congress appropriated approximately $67,000,000, he said.

Navigation Starting
Potter said that navigation in the lower reaches of the Missouri "is really starting and will continue."

The witness said that this year navigation interests will be assured of six to six and a half feet of water in the river channel from Omaha to the mouth of the Missouri and this will increase to seven feet in 1955.

Reds Propose A Defenseless Germany On Soviet Doorstep

...Appeal Made To France To Quit West's Defense Army

BERLIN (AP)—Russia's V. M. Molotov Monday night tossed the Big Four Conference a Soviet-style peace treaty for Germany. It would set up a unified Germany virtually defenseless on the Red Army's doorstep with Communists in key government posts.

Molotov threw the conference into a grave crisis by dredging up a two-year old Soviet draft of a treaty whose terms the West will not accept. It would condemn the former Reich to exist alone with only anti-aircraft guns to defend its frontiers.

The Soviet minister scorched the idea of a European defense community with West German troops as "an insuperable obstacle" to peace.

In almost the same breath, he appealed to France to repudiate EDC, follow Russia's policy on Germany, and court friendship with the Kremlin.

This "Molotov cocktail," which exploded at the round conference table in the Soviet Embassy's glittering Hall of Mirrors, rocked British negotiators especially. Most Americans had been expecting the worst from the outset.

British Glum
A British delegation spokesman glumly said Monday that Molotov "failed to submit any reasonable plan of his own and showed no sign that he would be ready to consider the Eden plan (endorsed by all three Western powers) on its merits."

Officials of all three Western delegations agreed later Monday night that the conference had foundered on the issue of a German settlement.

Molotov, in a 50-minute speech aimed at sinking the European Army project forever, made it clear to the American, British and French foreign ministers that the Kremlin refused any deal that would permit even one German soldier to join the Western defense system.

He brushed aside as not worthy of notice the arguments of Britain's Anthony Eden and France's Georges Bidault that the EDC would safeguard Russia as well as other nations from a recurrence of German militarism after this country's unification.

Recites War Losses
"We cannot forget that as a result of Hitler's aggression against the Soviet Union, 1,710 towns and more than 70,000 villages were completely or partly destroyed or burnt down," the Russian thundered.

"It is estimated that direct damage done in the part of the Soviet Union occupied by the Hitler Army amounted to 128 billion dollars."

France agreed to the Potsdam decisions on Germany's demilitarization in 1945, Molotov asserted. But, he added, now Bidault "constantly shies away from them, even though France needs these decisions no less than the Soviet Union."

Molotov accused the United States and Britain of pursuing "Hitler's policies" in developing an international system of military bases near the Soviet frontiers.

"The political aim, the political sense, of the plans for a so-called European Defense Community is that three states—the United States, Great Britain and France—attempts to create together with the official masters of Western Germany a war bloc against a fourth state—the Soviet Union," he said.

"One can no longer delay the conclusion of a peace treaty with Germany."

The Russian demanded the convening of a German peace conference not later than October to ratify a treaty to be worked out by the Big Four's deputy foreign ministers with representatives of the Communist East and anti-Communist West German governments.

The treaty, he insisted, must:

1. Ban a united Germany from any bloc or military alliance;

2. Renounce forever the German territories occupied by Russia and Poland at the end of the war;

3. Limit future German land, sea and air forces to "tasks of an internal character, local defense of frontiers, and anti-aircraft defense."

"No other way" will lead to the restoration of German unity, Molotov insisted.

GOP Group Shifts Legislative Stand

Nebraska Central Committee Gives Support To Partisan Unicameral

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (AP)—The Republican State Central Committee Monday endorsed petitions aimed at a constitutional change which, while retaining Nebraska's one-house (Unicameral) Legislature, would make its members partisan instead of non-political and might increase the number of members.

At present, the 43 members of the Unicameral are elected on a non-political basis.

The action reversed, in part, the stand taken by the committee at a meeting in Fremont last year and followed a similar shift in position taken by a bi-partisan committee which is planning to put the proposed constitutional changes before the voters this year.

At Fremont last year, the committee approved the circulation of petitions calling for an amendment giving Nebraska a two-house Legislature, with 30 to 40 members in the Senate and 80 to 100 in the House, all elected under party labels.

Voice Vote
A motion to rescind this previous motion was approved by voice vote at Monday's meeting here, attended by about 100 persons. Only one dissenting voice was heard.

A new motion then called for circulation of petitions aimed at amending the constitution so senators will be elected on partisan ballots. The amendment also would specify that the Legislature have no fewer than 43 nor more than 86 members.

Only a few dissenting voices were heard on this vote.

In other business before mid-afternoon adjournment, the committee:

Decided to hold the party's pre-primary convention in Fremont May 24.

Heard State Chairman David T. Martin of Kearney pledge a "strong campaign" this year.

Heard party treasurer Joseph S. Wishart of Lincoln call upon county chairmen to intensify fund-raising activities this year because more money will be needed for the 1954 campaign than ever before was needed in an off-year election campaign.

Wishart said the financial needs will be as heavy as in 1952, a presidential election year. This was the finding of a budget committee of the state central committee which met last month, he said.

The pre-primary convention, now optional as far as state law is concerned, used to be held in June. The constitution was amended, however, to provide that it be held on a Monday in May.

Martin told committee members here that a survey of state newspapers showed editorial opinion 80 per cent in favor of retaining the one-house Legislature, the only of its kind in the country.

The bi-partisan committee which has been mapping the petition drive to put the proposed constitutional changes in the legislative setup on the ballot this year met at York Saturday and announced it will back the partisan one-house Legislature.

Martin and State Democratic Chairman William Meier of Minden issued a joint statement saying "surveys" reveal an overwhelming statewide sentiment for a partisan one-house Legislature with substantial support for a larger membership."

AFL Asks Action On Economy

... 'Trouble' Threatens

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — AFL leaders Monday called for a new round of wage increases and immediate construction of huge public works projects to stave off serious "trouble" in the American economy.

AFL President George Meany said the Eisenhower administration has claimed to have a batch of public works construction plans available for use when a depression threatens, but the AFL feels the time has come to push-button them into effect.

"All the signs indicate we're going down hill," Meany told a news conference, summing the first day's session of the AFL executive council's winter meeting. "All the resources in the world won't help us if we don't use them."

The AFL put out figures to show that one out of five people have lost their jobs since the middle of 1953. It was stated that besides the 2,359,000 listed by the government as unemployed, the number of persons employed has declined sufficiently—even discounting what should have been a normal growth of the labor force—to boost the declining jobs to 3,350,000 since last June.

Meany said the answer is to buoy consumer purchasing power. He noted the council's conclusion that compensation of employees amounts to two-thirds of the national income and said one way to boost buying power is to increase pay rates. In addition, he cited these recommendations to help the economic situation:

1. Boost the federal minimum wage, now 75 cents an hour, to $1.25. This parallels demands made by the CIO.

2. Increase unemployment compensation payments and their duration; make funds immediately available for public works; expand housing goals from one million to two million units a year with special government aid in building homes for low and middle income families; avoid tax relief for the rich and give it, instead, to the poor; and promote purchasing power by giving "full effect" to mobilizing government resources under the employment act of 1946.

"Factual and unbiased analysis," the AFL council said, "indicates that while our national economy is organically healthy, we are headed for serious trouble unless there is prompt government action."

Meanwhile, the AFL Building Trades Union, claiming about 3 million of the AFL's more than 10 million members, decided to try to head off joblessness of their members by working with contractors to curb labor costs.

Spring Posting Of Poorer Paving Hit By Many At Public Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Army engineer testified Monday that the four big dams on the upper reaches of the Missouri River, when completed, will store enough water to provide for downstream areas through a year of drought.

Potter said that navigation in the lower reaches of the Missouri "is really starting and will continue."

The witness said that this year navigation interests will be assured of six to six and a half feet of water in the river channel from Omaha to the mouth of the Missouri and this will increase to seven feet in 1955.

Jawbone Is Found On Beach

Police Believe Find May Solve Mystery

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP)—A human jawbone with six teeth may solve the disappearance of Clarence Lear, missing Nebraska Law School graduate, San Mateo authorities disclosed Monday.

The jawbone was washed up on the beach near Mussel Rock on the northern San Mateo County coast where it was found by Richard Carmer, fisherman from San Francisco.

The spot is just south of Thornton Beach, where Lear disappeared last Nov. 4, while scaling a cliff above the beach.

Lear, who was working in a San Francisco bank while waiting to take the state bar examinations, had gone to the beach for a midnight party. One of the young women on the trip slipped on the cliff, and Lear climbed down to help her. He was never seen again.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Lear, formerly of Norfolk, Neb., came to San Francisco and remained for sometime during the search.

tary bases near the Soviet frontiers.

"The political aim, the political sense, of the plans for a so-called European Defense Community is that three states—the United States, Great Britain and France—attempts to create together with the official masters of Western Germany a war bloc against a fourth state—the Soviet Union," he said.

"One can no longer delay the conclusion of a peace treaty with Germany."

The Russian demanded the convening of a German peace conference not later than October, to ratify a treaty to be worked out by the Big Four's deputy foreign ministers with representatives of the Communist East and anti-Communist West German governments.

The treaty, he insisted, must:

1. Ban a united Germany from any bloc or military alliance;
2. Renounce forever the German territories occupied by Russia and Poland at the end of the war;
3. Limit future German land, sea and air forces to "tasks of an internal character, local defense of frontiers, and anti-aircraft defense."

"No other way" will lead to the restoration of German unity, Molotov insisted.

GOP Group Shifts Legislative Stand

Nebraska Central Committee Gives Support To Partisan Unicameral

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (AP)—The Republican State Central Committee Monday endorsed petitions aimed at a constitutional change which, while retaining Nebraska's one-house (Unicameral) Legislature, would make its members partisan instead of non-political and might increase the number of members.

At present, the 43 members of the Unicameral are elected on a non-political basis.

The action reversed, in part, the stand taken by the committee at a meeting in Fremont last year and followed a similar shift in position taken by a bi-partisan committee which is planning to put the proposed constitutional changes before the voters this year.

At Fremont last year, the committee approved the circulation of petitions calling for an amendment giving Nebraska a two-house Legislature, with 30 to 40 members in the Senate and 40 to 100 in the House, all elected under party labels.

Voice Vote
A motion to rescind this previous motion was approved by voice vote at Monday's meeting here, attended by about 100 persons. Only one dissenting voice was heard.

A new motion then called for circulation of petitions aimed at amending the constitution so senators will be elected on party ballots. The amendment also would specify that the Legislature have no fewer than 43 nor more than 86 members.

Only a few dissenting voices were heard on this vote.

In other business before mid-afternoon adjournment, the committee:

Decided to hold the party's pre-primary convention in Fremont May 24.

Heard State Chairman David T. Martin of Kearney pledge a strong campaign this year.

Heard party treasurer Joseph S. Wishart of Lincoln call upon county chairmen to intensify fund-raising activities this year because more money will be needed for the 1954 campaign than ever before was needed in an off-year election campaign.

Wishart said the financial needs will be as heavy as in 1952, a presidential election year. This was the finding of a budget committee of the state central committee which met last month, he said.

The pre-primary convention, now optional as far as state law is concerned, used to be held in June. The constitution was amended, however, to provide that it be held on a Monday in May.

Martin told committee members here that a survey of state newspapers showed editorial opinion 80 per cent in favor of retaining the one-house Legislature, the only of its kind in the country.

The bi-partisan committee which has been mapping the petition drive to put the proposed constitutional changes in the legislative setup on the ballot this year met at York Saturday and announced it will back the partisan one-house Legislature.

Martin and State Democratic Chairman William Meier of Minden issued a joint statement saying "surveys" reveal an overwhelming statewide sentiment for a partisan one-house Legislature with substantial support for a larger membership."

Meier Says Demo Poll Pro 2-Party

State Chairman's Tally: 84% Favorable

Lincoln Star Special

MINDEN — State Democratic Chairman William H. Meier announced Monday that 94 Democratic Party leaders—or 84.6 per cent—out of 111 replying favored "immediate efforts" to bring about the election of state legislators on a partisan basis.

The canvass also revealed that 87 felt that the Bi-Partisan Committee should sponsor an amendment resulting in nomination and election of legislators on the regular primary and general election ballots.

Of the 887, 30 want the change whether the membership is enlarged or remains at 43. Only 15, Meier said, are satisfied with the present size and 42 insisted that the membership be increased.

Meier added that 14 favored leaving the Legislature as it is and 41 favored continuing efforts for a two-house Legislature.

The questionnaires were sent by Meier to members of the Democratic Central Committee and to county chairmen of the state.

Balmy High Temps Almost New Mark

The Weather Bureau described Monday's balmy weather as "very unusual" but said that it was not a record for Feb. 1.

The 57 degree high was two degrees short of the 1935 high of 59. Most Lincolinites didn't seem to miss the two degrees, they just basked in the warmth.

The Bureau also reported that January was the driest it has been for that month in Lincoln since 1928. Only .15 of an inch of moisture was recorded. The average is .82 of an inch.

Omaha fared little better, it was reported, with the driest January since 1943. Only .24 of an inch was recorded instead of the .61 normal.

High temperatures in the 50s were forecast for Nebraska Tuesday.

And the forecast indicated the Ground Hog has a mighty good chance to see his shadow in store for him Tuesday, traditional Groundhog Day. The weather bureau said skies would be generally fair.

If the Ground hog gets caught in a beam of sunlight, folklore says, there'll be six more weeks of winter.

The schools of the United States are making a sincere determined effort to meet the demands of changing educational needs.

That was the opinion expressed by Dr. Samuel Brownell, U. S. commissioner of education in an interview Monday night. An ex-Lincolnite and brother of U. S. Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Dr. Brownell will speak at a meeting of the Governor's Lay Conference on Education here Tuesday.

Dr. Brownell answered the question, "What is going to be done to house the yearly increase in students," by saying simply "They'll do the same as the people who make baby carriages—increase their capacity."

Asked about the possibility of Communist infiltration in the systems in this country, he said: "Administrators and teachers in our schools are just as loyal Americans as anyone else. They are doing everything they can to prepare good citizens."

"As high or higher percentage of loyalty may be found among the teachers as in any other profession. School boards and administrations will be alert to identify and remove anyone who is disloyal to this country.

"They don't want their professional discredited any more than anyone wants his discredited but they are not becoming hysterical about the situation. In a number of big cities they have already dismissed those who are known to be disloyal."

Asked about the oft-made charge that the schools are no longer teaching the "three Rs," he stated that "ever since the time of Horace Mann people have decried the teaching in the 'new schools.'"

In explanation he said that "much more emphasis is placed on contributing to the total development of young people today. Schools now must teach more subjects, which in turn causes a shift in emphasis."

In support of the present system he added, "We have evidence that more better-trained students than ever before in this country's history are being graduated from today's schools. It should be borne in mind that more of the students who once dropped out of school are staying because it is the best place for them."

Many educators would like to increase the pace, he said, but he feels that schools are trying their best to keep up with the changing demands of the present age.

—Accusations Of Adultery Termed False—
James Roosevelt Asserts Blackmailed Into Signing
... He Will Decide Later On Congress Race

LOS ANGELES (AP)—James Roosevelt Monday declared his wife's accusations of adultery with 12 women are false; that he was "blackmailed" into signing a letter admitting nine infidelities; that he signed the letter, knowing it to be false, in overwhelming horror of adding to his father's burdens as President.

The letter, he said, was his wife's price for calling off a divorce action.

Arthur S. Schifferman, one of three attorneys representing Mrs. Roosevelt, said his client would have no statement "until we have seen the statement, read it, digested it and conferred on it."

Roosevelt, an announced candidate for Congress in the 28th District, has been asked to withdraw as a result of the scandal.

He said he will decide whether to file his formal declaration some time before the April 2 deadline.

"All the people who want me to retire (from the race) apparently have a candidate they want to put in my place," he told a reporter.

"That's okay with me. I have released all my friends and campaign workers. I will not submit my name at the next District Council meeting Feb. 11."

Says No Foundation

"My wife has chosen to make the most ugly accusation which it is possible to make against any man," the late Franklin D. Roosevelt's eldest son said, reading a statement to reporters at a press conference.

"Each and every allegation of misconduct by the 12 persons mentioned with me is completely false and without foundation," he expressed "an especial apology" to the nine women named in a 1945 letter signed by him and filed with the separate maintenance suit of his wife, Mrs. Romella Schneider Roosevelt, last Thursday.

Each and every one of them is completely innocent of any misconduct with me," he continued. "The harm which has been done them I can never repair, but I can and do emphasize their innocence, ask their forgiveness and understanding of this unfortunate incident."

Roosevelt said his actions "were done under compulsion and in an effort to protect them."

He accused his wife of an "insatiable demand for material security" and said:

"From the very beginning there developed an unreasonable fear and jealousy of anybody with whom I had contact in a normal social way."

"There began a calculated campaign to transfer to her every material asset that I owned and a constant threat to accuse me of imaginary infidelities."

"This pattern reached its climax in the early part of 1945 when I was repeatedly faced with demand that I acknowledge these imaginary happenings and, as she put it, 'purge my soul.'"

"I was given an alternative."

JAMES ROOSEVELT

She stated that if I once did this she would forever cease these demands and begin our marital life anew.

"If I did not, she would proceed with a divorce naming all individuals."

Roosevelt recalled he was then entering the fifth year of his active Marine Corps service, much of it overseas.

"Unfortunately, due to prior physical disabilities accentuated by malaria contracted in the South Pacific, I was very much below par physically," he read on.

"I further was acutely conscious of the tremendous burden which my father was then carrying as President of the United States, and the horror of adding another to these burdens seemed to me to be overwhelming."

He said he was promised that if he would sign a letter prepared by attorneys it would never be made public and in time would be destroyed.

"I wrongly believed that no individual in their right mind could or would ever make public such a document," Roosevelt continued.

"That it was blackmail, I now recognize, but my desire to keep these innocent people from unjustified attacks while I am overseas and unable to defend myself, my desire to make, if possible, a success of my marriage, and my desire to prevent any anguish to my own family, led me to believe in the sincerity of my wife's statement."

'I Yielded and Signed'

"Therefore, I yielded and signed it, together with her drastic financial demands, both at the same time."

He said this was on the day before he left anew for overseas duty Feb. 23, 1945.

To save the family and protect the children, Roosevelt asserted, he has done everything draw as a result of the scandal. He said he will decide whether to file his formal declaration some time before the April 2 deadline.

"All the people who want me to retire (from the race) apparently have a candidate they want to put in my place," he told a reporter.

"That's okay with me. I have released all my friends and campaign workers. I will not submit my name at the next District Council meeting Feb. 11."

he could, "including responding to her demands that I turn over to her control of almost all that I have both in community property and property I owned before our marriage."

He said the "statement in her affidavit that she estimates my net worth as about two million dollars" is an "utter and complete falsehood."

Of Roosevelt's public apology, Mrs. Richard Durant, the former actress Jayne Shaddock and now the wife of a Honolulu doctor, declared that it does not "exonerate him from the responsibility of smearing innocent persons."

She said in a statement "a lot of damage has been done to a lot of innocent people. I cannot condone Mr. Roosevelt ever signing any document containing such damaging lies . . . in order to extricate himself from his personal problems . . . no matter what the circumstances."

An educational bridge is needed. Requesting that his name not be used, a personnel director writes about training:

"In the long years of education of people for development in industry we have reached a point where there is a great difference between the viewpoints of a young man graduating from college and his employer who expects something constructive from him in promoting the interest of the business."

"The late Dean Herman Schneider once said: Teaching should be a sort of a bridge. It should mean building a bridge between theory and practice, between knowing and doing, between education and life. He had a name to describe that kind of teaching. He called it 'Culture by Contract.' (Ambassador to Industry by Clyde W. Parks, The Bobbs-Merrill Company.)"

"Of course, we cannot get away from the three R's—Reading, Writing and Arithmetic. They are essential for success in any endeavor. Vocabulary is developed and enriched by reading; the man who can write clearly can express himself even more clearly when he speaks, and most of our problems are simplified when broken down in mathematical patterns.

"One Marcus Vitruvius Pollio, architect, engineer and city planner for Augustus Caesar, wrote a treatise on architecture in which he said: 'The architect should be equipped with knowledge of many branches of study and varied kinds of learning, for it is by his judgment that all works done by the other arts are put to test. This knowledge is the child of practice and theory. Practice is the continuous and regular exercise of employment where manual work is done with any necessary material according to the design of the drawing. Theory on the other hand is the ability to demonstrate and explain the productions of dexterity on the principles of production. (Professor Morris H. Mogan's translation of Vitruvius, The Ten Books of Architecture, Cambridge, Harvard Press, 1914)."

Sabel Denies Taking Liquor 'Raid' Money

SIOUX CITY (AP)—Mark Sabel, Sioux City fruit broker charged with conspiracy, denied Monday he ever accepted money for protection from liquor raids.

His testimony contradicted that of Harry Elsberg, a state witness, who testified previously in the District Court trial, that he had collected $2,000 a month for "protection from raids for liquor law violations."

Sabel, who was on the stand all afternoon, denied talking to Elsberg about "money helping to open up the town, or about receiving money from Elsberg at the Pastime Club or in the glove compartment of his car."

Defense Attorney Frank Margolin had not completed questioning his client when court was recessed until Tuesday morning.

Virtually the only similarity between the testimony given by Sabel Monday and by Elsberg consisted of their statements concerning their friendship and that their families had visited socially.

Sabel testified he was a partner with Elsberg for about two months in the Alumni Club in 1946 or 1947. He said he did not know if Elsberg collected $2,000 a month or not for a payoff but that he, Sabel, did not see any of it.

Sabel told of being campaign manager for George Gibbons in 1942 when the defendant first entered city politics. Gibbons sought the office of public safety commissioner.

"Once politics gets in your blood it's almost impossible to get it out," Sabel said.

Total Omaha receipts of 5,572,825 ranked Omaha second only to Chicago, which handled 6,442,131 head during 1953. The report ranked St. Louis, St. Paul, Sioux City, Denver, Kansas City and St. Joseph as the next largest markets in that order.

Cattle receipts at Omaha totaled 2,161,505 for an all-time record for Omaha.

KENNEWICK, Wash. (INS)—A berserk father, unemployed for a month, killed three members of his family and then took his own life Monday at his home about seven miles west of Kennewick.

Authorities said Marion Joseph V. Naranjo, about 41, killed his wife, 41; her father, Marion Bowers, about 75, and his 3-year-old adopted daughter, Dorothy. Then he shot himself to death with the 25-20 calibre rifle.

Naranjo worked at the Hanford atomic energy project until about a month ago. He borrowed $15 from a neighbor Sunday to buy a license for his car and $5 from another neighbor Monday to buy food.

Les Chapin, Norfolk, dairy spokesman reminded that milk is a perishable necessity whose hauling is governed by U. S. public health regulations.

"We have to use refrigerated trucks. Some of them alone weigh 15,000 pounds. Under weight limitations we couldn't put them on the road."

Ress promised at the close of the hearing that as much advance notice would be given as possible if it were necessary to restrict any roads. He added that restrictions would be held to a minimum.

Total Omaha receipts of 5,572,825 ranked Omaha second only to Chicago, which handled 6,442,131 head during 1953. The report ranked St. Louis, St. Paul, Sioux City, Denver, Kansas City and St. Joseph as the next largest markets in that order.

Cattle receipts at Omaha totaled 2,161,505 for an all-time record for Omaha.

—Accusations Of Adultery Termed False—
James Roosevelt Asserts Blackmailed Into Signing
... He Will Decide Later On Congress Race

LOS ANGELES (AP)—James Roosevelt Monday declared his wife's accusations of adultery with 12 women are false; that he was "blackmailed" into signing a letter admitting nine infidelities.

That he signed the letter, knowing it to be false, in overwhelming horror of adding to his father's burdens as President.

The letter, he said, was his wife's price for calling off a divorce action.

Arthur S. Schifferman, one of three attorneys representing Mrs. Roosevelt, said his client would have no statement "until we have seen the statement, read it, digested it and conferred on it."

Roosevelt, an announced candidate for Congress in the 26th District, has been asked to withdraw.

She stated that if I once did this she would forever cease these demands and begin our marital life anew.

"If I did not, she would proceed with a divorce naming all individuals."

Roosevelt recalled he was then entering the fifth year of his active Marine Corps service, much of it overseas.

"Unfortunately, due to prior physical disabilities accentuated by malaria contracted in the South Pacific, I was very much below par physically," he read on.

"I further was acutely conscious of the tremendous burden which my father was then carrying as President of the United States, and the horror of adding another to these burdens seemed to me to be overwhelming."

He said he was promised that if he would sign a letter prepared by attorneys it would never be made public and in time would be destroyed.

"I wrongly believed that no individual in their right mind could or would ever make public such a document," Roosevelt continued.

"That it was blackmail, I now recognize, but my desire to keep these innocent people from unjustified attacks while I was overseas and unable to defend myself, my desire to make, if possible, a success of my marriage, and my desire to prevent any anguish to my own family, led me to believe in the sincerity of my wife's statement."

"I Yielded and Signed"

"Therefore, I yielded and signed it, together with her drastic financial demands, both at the same time."

He said this was on the day before he left abroad for overseas duty Feb. 28, 1945.

To save the family and protect the children, Roosevelt asserted, he has done everything possible.

"My wife has chosen to make the most ugly accusation which it is possible to make against any man," the late Franklin D. Roosevelt's eldest son said, reading a statement to reporters at a press conference.

"Each and every allegation of misconduct by the 12 persons mentioned with me is completely false and without foundation."

He expressed "an especial apology" to the nine women named in a 1945 letter signed by him and filed with the separate maintenance suit of his wife, Mrs. Romella Schneider Roosevelt, last Thursday.

Each and every one of them is completely innocent of any misconduct with me," he continued. "The harm which has been done them I can never repair, but I can and do emphasize their innocence, ask their forgiveness and understanding of this unfortunate incident."

Roosevelt said his actions "were done under compulsion and in an effort to protect them."

He accused his wife of an "insatiable demand for material security" and said:

"From the very beginning there developed an unreasonable fear and jealousy of anybody with whom I had contact in a normal social way."

"There began a calculated campaign to transfer to her every material asset that I owned and a constant threat to accuse me of imaginary infidelities."

"This pattern reached its climax in the early part of 1945 when I was repeatedly faced with the demand that I acknowledge these imaginary happenings and, as she put it, 'purge my soul.'"

"I was given an alternative."

draw as a result of the scandal. He said he will decide whether to file his formal declaration some time before the April 2 deadline.

"All the people who want me to retire (from the race) apparently have a candidate they want to put in my place," he told a reporter.

"That's okay with me. I have released all my friends and campaign workers. I will not submit my name at the next District Council meeting Feb. 11."

MONTREAL (INS)—Montreal police announced Monday night they are holding "the best suspect yet" in their search for the "laughing slasher" who has cut the legs of at least 12 women in the past 10 days.

Although a total of 26 attacks have been reported, police say not more than half the number had been accepted as the work of the apparent sex maniac who slashes women's legs with a razor blade and then flees, laughing.

Violations Ruled

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court ruled Monday that it is a violation of the Taft-Hartley Act for a union to discipline members by denying them work.

In another Taft-Hartley case, the court held that an employer violates the law by granting benefits to union employees while denying them to non-union workers.

SAIGON, Indo-China (AP)—The Communist-led Vietminh—by-passing brilliant Dien Bien Phu fortress—unleashed an attack Monday toward the heart of Laos in the third invasion bid into that kingdom within nine months.

A spokesman for Gen. Henri Navarre, French commander in Indo-China, said the present Vietminh offensive goes beyond the Indo-China War. "Its objective now appears clearly to be not only to 'liberate' Indo-China but to conquer all of southeast Asia."

These Democrats will get a chance to quiz Beeson personally Tuesday at an informal hearing of the Senate Labor Committee.

Show Ban Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) asked the Supreme Court Monday to affirm its ban on radio and television "give-away shows."

The FCC, represented by attorney Roger Wollenberg, argued that the something-for-nothing shows amount to "nothing more than lotteries," and should be barred under federal statutes.

Sabel Denies Taking Liquor
'Raid' Money

SIoux CITY (AP)—Mark Sabel, Sioux City fruit broker charged with conspiracy, denied Monday he ever accepted money for protection from liquor raids.

His testimony contradicted that of Harry Elsberg, a state witness, who testified previously in the District Court trial, that he had collected $2,000 a month for "protection from raids for liquor law violations."

Sabel, who was on the stand all afternoon, denied talking to Elsberg about "money helping to open up the town," or about receiving money from Elsberg at the Pastime Club or in the glove compartment of his car.

Defense Attorney Frank Margolin had not completed questioning his client when court was recessed until Tuesday morning.

Virtually the only similarity between the testimony given by Sabel Monday and by Elsberg consisted of their statements concerning their friendship and that their families had visited socially.

Sabel testified he was a partner with Elsberg for about two months in the Alumni Club in 1946 or 1947. He said he did not know if Elsberg collected $2,000 a month or not for a payoff but that he, Sabel, did not see any of it.

Sabel told of being campaign manager for George Gibbons in 1942 when the defendant first entered city politics. Gibbons sought the office of public safety commissioner.

"Once politics gets in your blood it's almost impossible to get it out," Sabel said.

He said Monday he would not be a candidate for re-election at the federation's annual convention next August. Otte said he plans to attend the annual meeting of the Nebraska Federation of Post Office Clerks at Nebraska City next May.

as it develops it. It will do all it can to keep traffic moving and maintain the flow of the state's economy."

Rees described the condition as one of "common problems" resulting from lack of funds in years past to prevent critical deterioration of portions of highway. He indicated that the chickens have come home to roost and the fact would have to be faced.

"There was an effort in 1949 to remedy the lack of funds (The 1949 highway tax referendum) but it failed. Now we are moving ahead, but it will take time to remedy this deterioration," Rees said.

Superior, Scottsbluff and northeast Nebraska provided the bulk of community opposition to the weight limiting program. They cited their dependence upon truck shipments and declared that department action could slow down business to a walk. The result would be a chain reaction, they asserted, starting with agriculture, moving through wholesale and retail business to affect, finally, everyone.

Frank Wilson, Lincoln attorney representing the Champlin Refining Company maintaining a pipeline from Enid, Okla., to Superior from where it trucks petroleum products throughout Nebraska, said the state's weight limit map made it almost impossible to ship out of Superior.

"We can't operate 10 months out of twelve," he said. "And we are certain that moving trucks at a per cent of capacity would be very costly."

Fred Irons, Hastings representative of the Kanab pipeline operation from El Dorado, Kan., to Geneva, said, "This new concern would have no ingress or egress to its Geneva terminal if a 12,000 pound limit were placed on trucks moving on Highway 81 in that vicinity. We made inquiries of the highway department late last year on the road matter and was assured that no limitations were in prospect."

Hugh Hill, Superior Oil man; Herbert Hahn, secretary of the Nebraska Petroleum Markets; Robert Powell, counsel for the Petroleum Carrier Division of the Nebraska Motor Carriers Association; E. P. Ryan, Grand Island, secretary of the Nebraska and National Livestock Association; Jerry Corbett, assistant secretary of the Sioux City Stockyards; T. J. Liveringhouse, Wayne, trucker; J. E. Demming, Broken Bow, Elmer Viren, Omaha, representing C. A. Swanson and Sons; Lynn Hutton, Norfolk, speaking for wholesalers, were among those appearing.

Others heard were Jack Goodwin, secretary-manager, Scottsbluff Chamber of Commerce; Orville Baldwin, Hebron attorney; Bill Johnson, secretary-manager Broken Bow Chamber of Commerce; John Smith, Beatrice city commissioner; Lowell

Houghton and L. A. Weeke, Superior business men; Chet Marshall, Arlington nurseryman; C. J. Burrill, manager of the transportation department of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce; Frank Sargent, Alliance, president of the Nebraska Livestock Auction Association; H. B. Muffly and C. A. Ross, representing Lincoln shipping interests; Max Harding, Lincoln, for oil field equipment carriers and Oscar Fuller, Neligh oil man.

Several pointed out that truck operators buy their licenses on a 12 months basis but were in danger of getting but 10 months use out of them.

City Commissioner John Smith of Beatrice asserted that the state's proposed action failed to weigh the economic damage.

"How would you look at it if cities suddenly decided to put weight restrictions on traffic moving through?" he asked. He added that "four cities are trying to attract industry. How far will we get if we have to tell them they can't count on using the highways?"

Les Chapin, Norfolk, dairy spokesman reminded that milk is a perishable necessity whose hauling is governed by U. S. public health regulations.

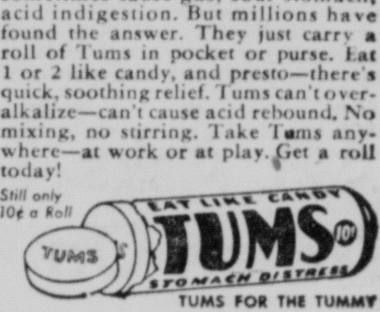

"We have to use refrigerated trucks. Some of them alone weigh 15,000 pounds. Under weight limitations we couldn't put them on the road."

Rees promised at the close of the hearing that as much advance notice would be given as possible if it were necessary to restrict any roads. He added that restrictions would be held to a minimum.

In PURSUIT of HAPPINESS

By J. GORDON ROBERTS

An educational bridge is needed. Requesting that his name not be used, a personnel director writes about training:

"In the long years of education of people for development in industry we have reached a point where there is a great difference between the viewpoints of a young man graduating from college and his employer who expects something constructive from him in promoting the interest of the business."

"The late Dean Herman Schneider once said: 'Teaching should be a sort of a bridge. It should mean building a bridge between theory and practice, between knowing and doing, between education and life.' He had a name to describe that kind of teaching. He called it 'Culture by Contract.' ('Ambassador to Industry' by Clyde W. Parks, The Bobbs-Merrill Company.)"

"Of course, we cannot get away from the three R's—Reading, Writing and Arithmetic. They are essential for success in any endeavor. Vocabulary is developed and enriched by reading; the man who can write clearly can express himself even more clearly when he speaks, and most of our problems are simplified when broken down in mathematical patterns.

"One Marcus Vitruvius Pollio, architect, engineer and city planner for Augustus Caesar, wrote a treatise on architecture in which he said: 'The architect should be equipped with knowledge of many branches of study and varied kinds of learning, for it is by his judgment that all works done by the other arts are put to test. This knowledge is the child of practice and theory. Practice is the continuous and regular exercise of employment where manual work is done with any necessary material according to the design of the drawing. Theory on the other hand is the ability to demonstrate and explain the productions of dexterity on the principles of production. (Professor Morris H. Mogan's translation of Vitruvius, The Ten Books of Architecture, Cambridge, Harvard Press, 1914)."

New Legal Troubles Unsolved

WASHINGTON (AP)—Efforts to compromise the Senate scrap over the Bricker treaty-making amendment rammed into an objection by President Eisenhower Monday and counter-objections by Sens. George (D-Ga.) and Bricker (R-Ohio).

Two White House conferences and another at the Capitol failed to shake out a new "legal and constitutional" tangle and bring about agreement.

The latest flare-up is over presidential authority to make international agreements which, in contrast with treaties, don't have to be ratified by the Senate. As a day of negotiating came to a close, it was a hazy uncertainty whether an understanding was closer or more remote than ever on an issue that has split Senate Republicans into warring camps and cut across party lines.

White House Meet
Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, trudged wearily out of the White House Monday night saying the latest compromise maneuvers still were hung up on "certain legal and constitutional questions." He and two of his top Senate lieutenants had conferred on them for an hour with the President and Atty. Gen. Brownell.

It was the second trip of the day to the White House for Knowland and Senators Ferguson of Michigan, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee and Mullikin of Colorado, head of the conference of all Senate Republicans.

On the first trip Monday morning, they encountered those legal and constitutional complications about international agreements, and suggestions for some changes in a compromise plan. Knowland, George and others had put together.

George and Bricker objected to the proposed changes. Knowland met with them and Republican and Democratic Senate leaders during the afternoon. That huddle broke up with no signs of progress or agreement.

Tuesday Report
So Knowland, Ferguson and Mullikin returned to the White House. Brownell and other legal experts, Knowland said, will study the situation overnight and report to him. Then, he said, there will be another bipartisan session of Senate leaders to see what prospects there are for an agreement.

With compromise attempts bogged down, at least for the time being, Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said he had waited long enough and introduced as a substitute to the revised Bricker amendment a bill to put Congress on record as declaring the Constitution superior to all treaties and international agreements.

As some authorities read it, the Constitution puts treaties and the Constitution on a par as "the supreme law of the land."

The Kefauver Bill, sponsored by 10 other Democrats and Independent Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, also would have Congress declare that neither a treaty nor executive agreement can prevail over laws passed later by Congress to alter their domestic effects on the nation.

Signs appeared that the administration might like to see some sort of amendment go through the Senate and then count on the House to put it into acceptable terms. George and Bricker refused to go along with any such idea.

Only one thing seemed sure—Bricker's original plan to amend the Constitution, so as to hem in the government's powers to make treaties and agreements with other countries, is dead.

Commissioner Palmer's Appeal Trial On Drunk-Drive Conviction Begins

Jury trial of State Railway Commissioner Harold A. Palmer, 50, of 425 So. 42nd and Omaha, on a drunk-driving charge opened Monday in Lancaster District Court.

City Prosecutor John Binning called four witnesses Monday in the case which was appealed from Municipal Court, where Palmer was found guilty of the charged offense of April 22, 1953, following a trial in which the evidence was stipulated.

The first witness, Rolland Johnson of Rt. 7, Lincoln, testified that his car was sideswiped on East O by Palmer's car which did not stop at the accident scene but continued west on O.

Johnson said he turned his car around and followed, but was not able to overtake Palmer's car until they reached 21st and O where the cars were stopped by a train on the crossing.

At that point Johnson was able to hail Patrolman Arthur Aksamit, who was across the street, he said.

After the two cars were pulled to the curb, Aksamit said he had a preliminary discussion with Johnson and Palmer and then went across the street to call headquarters after telling both men to remain near the spot.

Aksamit said when he returned minutes later, Palmer was missing but was found "hiding" in the cab of a dump truck parked in a service station lot at 20th and O.

Following the arrival of a police cruiser car, Palmer was taken to headquarters, said Aksamit.

Based on his observations and conversations with the defendant at 21st and O and later at police headquarters, Officer Aksamit said it was his opinion that Palmer "was drunk."

Other witnesses called before the trial recessed until Tuesday were Mrs. Johnson, who was a passenger in the car driven by her husband at the time of the incident, and Patrolman Ed Frame.

The owner of the plant, Jack Beard, 3645 So. 36, said operations probably would have to be shifted to another location.

The major part of the damage, around $25,000, was suffered by the Nehi plant to machinery, bottles, and other plant facilities. About $3,000 to $5,000 loss was suffered by OK Rubber Welding, as a result of damage to stored tires and rubber capping machines.

Close to 60 firemen answered the early morning blaze that spread an acrid burned-rubber odor over the neighborhood and caused some 400 onlookers to linger while firemen doused the flames.

Firemen said the blaze broke out, evidently, in the back end of the plant, which is partially occupied by the OK Rubber Welding Co.

Fire inspectors late Monday still had not determined the cause of Monday morning's blaze at 2020 N St. that resulted in close to $30,000 damages at the Nehi Bottling Co. plant.

The fire broke out shortly after midnight, and resulted in a second alarm call at 12:07. A fireman, Don Hudkins of 3509 O, suffered a sprained ankle from a water line during the initial fighting of the blaze.

Syria Tribe Revolt Hit

Three Druse Villages Levelled By Artillery

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Reports from Damascus said Monday Syrian Army artillery has been pounding 18 villages of revolting Druse tribesmen, leveling three of them.

Tough censorship has reduced the flow of news from Syria to a trickle since President Adib Shishkeily clamped martial law on trouble spots Thursday to stamp out attempts to overthrow his regime. He arrested 12 opposition leaders accused of "openly calling for mutiny and disturbance." In addition, former President Hachem Bey El Attassi was placed under house arrest.

Trouble Spots Hinted
The crackdown on the traditionally independent-minded Druse religious sect appeared to center around their mountain village fastnesses in the Jebbel Ed Druz area of Southern Syria. A well-informed source said the artillery had practically wiped out the village of Araman. However, Shishkeily's martial law proclamation indicated trouble spots extending up the Western side of the country and including such centers as Homs, Hama, and Aleppo.

The Beirut newspaper Al Hadaf said Monday the aged Druse leader, Sultan Attarache, had escaped from his village, El Kurava, where the Syrian Army had tried to keep him under house arrest. The paper said the Sultan had joined the Druse forces in their mountain hideouts. Rumors circulated that Attarache had fled to neighboring Jordan.

LONDON (AP)—Film Star Ginger Rogers reported Monday that furs worth 6,000 pounds ($18,800) have been stolen from her hotel suite in suburban Ekham. The burglars worked while she was at the theater with her husband, French actor Jacques Bergerac. # Bricker Amendment Compromise Efforts Hit Ike Objection

New Legal Troubles Unsolved

WASHINGTON (AP)—Efforts to compromise the Senate scrap over the Bricker treaty-making amendment rammed into an objection by President Eisenhower Monday and counter-objections by Sens. George (D-Ga.) and Bricker (R-Ohio).

Two White House conferences and another at the Capitol failed to shake out a new "legal and constitutional" tangle and bring about agreement.

The latest flare-up is over presidential authority to make international agreements which, in contrast with treaties, don't have to be ratified by the Senate. As a day of negotiating came to a close, it was a heavy uncertainty whether an understanding was closer or more remote than ever on an issue that has split Senate Republicans into warring camps and cut across party lines.

White House Meet
Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, trudged wearily out of the White House Monday night saying the latest compromise maneuvers still were hung up on "certain legal and constitutional questions." He and two of his top Senate lieutenants had conferred on them for an hour with the President and Atty. Gen. Brownell.

It was the second trip of the day to the White House for Knowland and Senators Ferguson of Michigan, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee and Millikin of Colorado, head of the conference of all Senate Republicans. On the first trip Monday morning, they encountered those legal and constitutional complications, and suggestions for some changes in a compromise plan. Knowland, George and others had put together.

George and Bricker objected to the proposed changes.

Knowland met with them and Republican and Democratic Senate leaders during the afternoon. That huddle broke up with no signs of progress or agreement.

Tuesday Report

So Knowland, Ferguson and Millikin returned to the White House. Brownell and other legal experts, Knowland said, will study the situation overnight and report to him. Then, he said, there will be another bipartisan session of Senate leaders to see what prospects there are for an agreement.

With compromise attempts bogged down at least for the time being, Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said he had waited long enough and introduced as a substitute to the revised Bricker amendment a bill to put Congress on record as declaring the Constitution superior to all treaties and international agreements.

As some authorities read it, the Constitution puts treaties and the Constitution on a par as "the supreme law of the land."

The Kefauver Bill, sponsored by 10 other Democrats and Independent Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, also would have Congress declare that neither a treaty nor executive agreement can prevail over laws passed later by Congress to alter their domestic effects on the nation.

Signs appeared that the administration might like to see some sort of amendment go through the Senate and then count on the House to put it into acceptable terms. George and Bricker refused to go along with any such idea.

Only one thing seemed sure—Bricker's original plan to amend the Constitution, so as to hem in the government's powers to make treaties and agreements with other countries, is dead.

Commissioner Palmer's Appeal Trial On Drunk-Drive Conviction Begins

Jury trial of State Highway Commissioner Harold A. Palmer, 50, of 425 So. 42nd and Omaha, on a drunk-driving charge opened Monday in Lancaster District Court.

City Prosecutor John Binning called four witnesses Monday in the case which was appealed from Municipal Court, where Palmer was found guilty of the charged offense of April 22, 1953, following a trial in which the evidence was stipulated.

The first witness, Rolland Johnson of Rt. 7 Lincoln, testified that his car was sideswiped on East O by Palmer's car which did not stop at the accident scene but continued west on O. Johnson said he turned his car around and followed, but was not able to overtake Palmer's car until they reached 21st and O where the cars were stopped by a train on the crossing.

At that point Johnson was able to hail Patrolman Arthur Aksamit, who was across the street, he said.

After the two cars were pulled to the curb, Aksamit said he had a preliminary discussion with Johnson and Palmer and then went across the street to call headquarters after telling both men to remain near the spot.

Aksamit said when he returned minutes later, Palmer was missing but was found "hiding" in the cab of a dump truck parked in a service station lot at 20th and O.

Following the arrival of a police cruiser, Palmer was taken to headquarters, said Aksamit.

Based on his observations and conversations with the defendant at 21st and O and later at police headquarters, Officer Aksamit said it was his opinion that Palmer "was drunk."

Other witnesses called before the trial recessed until Tuesday were Mrs. Johnson, who was a passenger in the car driven by her husband at the time of the incident, and Patrolman Ed Frame.

Fire inspectors late Monday still had not determined the cause of Monday morning's blaze at 2020 N St. that resulted in close to $30,000 damages at the Nehi Bottling Co. plant.

The fire broke out shortly after midnight, and resulted in a second alarm call at 12:07. A fireman, Don Hudkins of 3509 O, suffered a sprained ankle from a water line during the initial fighting of the blaze.

Firemen said the blaze broke out, evidently, in the back end of the plant which is partially occupied by the OK Rubber Welding Co.

The owner of the plant, Jack Beard, 3645 So. 36, said operations probably would have to be shifted to another location.

The major part of the damage, around $25,000, was suffered by the Nehi plant to machinery, bottles, and other plant facilities.

About $3,000 to $5,000 loss was suffered by OK Rubber Welding, as a result of damage to stored tires and rubber capping machines.

Close to 60 firemen answered the early morning blaze that spread an acrid burned-rubber odor over the neighborhood and caused some 400 onlookers to linger while firemen doused the flames.

Syria Tribe Revolt Hit

Three Druse Villages Levelled By Artillery

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Reports from Damascus said Monday Syrian Army artillery has been pounding 18 villages of revolting Druse tribesmen, leveling three of them.

Tough censorship has reduced the flow of news from Syria to a trickle since President Adib Shishkeily clamped martial law on trouble spots Thursday to stamp out attempts to overthrow his regime. He arrested 12 opposition leaders accused of "openly calling for mutiny and disturbance." In addition, former President Hachem Bey El Attassi was placed under house arrest.

Trouble Spots Hinted
The crackdown on the traditionally independent-minded Druse religious sect appeared to center around their mountain village fastnesses in the Jebel Ed Druz area of Southern Syria. A well-informed source said the artillery had practically wiped out the village of Araman. However, Shishkeily's martial law proclamation indicated trouble spots extending up the Western side of the country and including such centers as Homs, Hama, and Aleppo.

The Beirut newspaper Al Hadaf said Monday the aged Druse leader, Sultan Attache, had escaped from his village, El Kuraya, where the Syrian Army had tried to keep him under house arrest. The paper said the Sultan had joined the Druse forces in their mountain hideouts. Rumors circulated that Attache had fled to neighboring Jordan.

REA Can Improve Safety Record

OMAHA (AP)—The Rural Electrification Administration is doing a good job of reducing accidents but its record can be improved, Nebraska REA superintendents and foremen were told Monday.

A. B. Shehee of Washington told the group that safety marks will improve with proper training, thorough job understanding, proper supervision and proper use of protective equipment.

The frequency of accidents and their severity are being reduced every year he said. They have now been cut to a ration of about 1.35 per 1,000 employed in line work.

The conference is being sponsored by the state department of vocational education and the Nebraska Rural Electric Association.

Although our cities are growing, nearly half our population growth in 10 years has been in the suburbs of our big cities.

America is going suburban...

In our 12 largest metropolitan areas, 72% of their growth between 1940 and 1950 was in the suburbs!

In this shift to the suburbs, there's been a growing need for more homes . . . for more apartment dwellings . . . for more branch stores and shops.

Life insurance funds are playing a major role in this changing picture by financing much of this building activity.

For example, a large portion of the funds needed to build housing developments and rental dwellings has come from the life insurance companies.

And as more and more people have moved to the suburbs and bought homes of their own, the life insurance companies have invested an increasing amount of their policyholders' funds in home mortgages.

In addition, these funds have helped finance the building of many of the shops, stores and small factories you see sprouting up in the suburbs.

Of course, the main reason people buy life insurance is for the protection and security of their families. But, until the funds paid in are returned as benefits, they are used as investment money to help the community and the country as a whole. And at the same time, the interest they earn helps keep down the cost of life insurance.

One January Record

The emphasis is upon safety upon the Nebraska highways.

Unfortunately the record points in the opposite direction. When January of this still young year of 1954 came to a close, there had been 27 automobile fatalities in Nebraska, compared to 12 a year ago. Actually the month produced more traffic casualties terminating fatally than any other similar period on record.

It is not too late to correct this grim story of death on the highways. It seemed after a flying start in 1953 that highway accidents got out of hand, and in the last three months of the year, due to early darkness and a number of other factors, the death rate mounted surprisingly. There are, we assume, accidents which can be classified as inevitable. But the great majority can be charged up to human factors involving carelessness or the willingness to take a chance, a chance that ends tragically.

The American people have put their shoulders to the wheel in combating the better known killers when it comes to disease. The highway toll continues to mount, year after year, until at this time each 12 months it contributes more deaths than generally occur on the battlefield.

Treasury Opposed To Dropping Excise Tax

WASHINGTON—The "Vigilant Women for the Bricker Amendment" have been swarming over Capitol Hill corridors, buttonholing congressmen, be-leaguering senators, and planting "news" bulletins in automobiles.

One of them accosted Wisconsin's Sen. Alexander Wiley, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, who—although she did not seem to know it—has been leading the fight against the Bricker amendment.

"I'm sorry, Madam," interrupted the kindly senator after the "vigilante" had extolled the virtues of Brickerism. "But I can't change my mind on this subject. I've made my position clear and I'm going to stick to it."

"I just wish you were my husband for a few days," scolded the lady, shaking her finger. "I'd soon change your mind!"

"Madam," replied the senator-diplomat, "if that situation should ever develop, I'd show you that I'm a real caveman at heart."

dictates over the tax-writing committee on Capitol Hill and who, incidentally, is not the easiest man to get along with. Speaker Martin proposed a compromise. He suggested splitting the difference and dropping a billion dollars worth of excise taxes.

Even this drop of one billion, however, gave Humphrey and Burgess a jolt. With income taxes reduced, they are scratching around for every penny and every billion they can lay hands on. That's why they're taking the issue to the White House.

HOW TO HEAL WOUNDS

Harold Russell, the armless war vet who played the part of sailor "Homer Parrish" in the movie, "The Best Years of Our Lives," was telling President Eisenhower the other day about some of his problems as rehabilitation director of the World Veterans Federation.

"We embrace all nations not dominated by Moscow and you can well imagine the diplomacy that must be employed at our conventions when you consider that we have war vet delegates from such unfriendly nations as Israel and Egypt, West Germany and France, and Italy and Yugoslavia," said Russell.

"Very interesting," commented Ike. "I suppose the competing groups sit on opposite sides."

"Oh, no, on the contrary, we try to seat them together, but first we try to arrange luncheons where delegations from antagonistic nations can air their views on a subject of mutual interest," Russell explained. "At one of our meetings we arranged a luncheon between Egyptian and Israeli delegates, at which the mutual problem of rehabilitation was discussed."

"It proved highly successful, because both delegations naturally were interested in improving the economic stability of their homelands. In a situation like that, it always helps to get opposing factions talking about a noncontroversial subject of mutual interest."

The President remarked that he had once used somewhat the same technique at a meeting while he was president of Columbia University.

"There was a great deal of tension and controversy at this meeting until I introduced a completely neutral subject. I got the conferees talking about babies. This was something everyone was interested in and liked to talk about. With the conferees thus relaxed and in a friendlier mood, we moved on to the important agenda of the meeting."

VANISHING BILLION?

Treasury Department chiefs are hopping mad at the man who's piloting the Eisenhower program through the House of Representatives—amiable, hard-working speaker Joe Martin. Joe came out with a compromise plan for dropping excise taxes which will lose the treasury a cool one billion dollars and both Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey and Assistant Secretary Randolph Burgess are most unhappy.

Furthermore, they have communicated their views vigorously to the President, who is having a session with Speaker Martin.

The issue involved is much more important than any clash between important personalities. It illustrates how closely the present government deficit has been figured, and how carefully the Treasury will have to tax in order not to go deeper in the red.

What happened was that Uncle Dan Reed, 78-year-old ruler of the House Ways and Means committee, proposed ending excise taxes. Excise taxes which now bring in three and a half billion a year are due to expire in April and Reed would not renew them.

However, the Treasury feels that this money is desperately needed in order not to throw the budget further out of balance. So Secretary Humphrey proposes continuing these taxes after April.

Hoping to keep peace between the Treasury and the man who

Trouble Over Beeson Selection For NLRB

WASHINGTON—The nomination of Albert C. Beeson, California industrial executive, to the National Labor Relations Board has brought a sharper and more clear-cut conflict between Republicans and Democrats than almost anything that has happened since the Eisenhower administration took over. The six Democrats comprising the minority on the Senate Labor Committee unanimously opposed the nomination, and it seems likely to become an issue in the fall campaign.

One thing the minority did succeed in doing, after a blast of protest, was to get the hearing into the Beeson nomination reopened on at least an informal basis. They claimed that they had not been given time to interrogate Beeson and that other witnesses wanting to oppose his confirmation were prevented from testifying.

A report prepared for the minority charges that because Beeson has so long represented management in the labor-management area, he could not be impartial as a member of the quasi-judicial NLRB. In the course of the hearings it was developed that the present chairman of the board, Guy Farmer, who recommended Beeson's nomination to the President, was retained by Beeson's company in disputes before the NLRB.

This, it was charged, would give management two certain votes. Farmer was formerly with the law firm of Steptoe and Johnson in which the leading figure is Louis Johnson, a Democrat and Secretary of Defense under President Truman.

In question also in the hearings is Beeson's denial that he told a reporter for the San Jose (California) Mercury that he was taking a year's leave of absence from his $30,000 a year job with the Food Machinery Corporation to serve on the NLRB for an interim one-year appointment. The paper promptly asserted in a news story and an editorial that Beeson had made the statement to their reporter, in whom they had complete confidence.

Trade union executives have made indignant statements denouncing the appointment. That was to be expected. But the language of the minority report is exceptionally strong.

"We know of no previous nomination to the National Labor Relations Board, certainly in recent times," the minority declared, "against which the representatives of either labor or management so strongly protested."

According to the minority report, which may or may not be filed, depending on what happens in the reopened hearings, no member of the board has ever been appointed directly from the ranks of labor or management. "Past administrations,"

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I have just finished reading Bill Dobler's article in Monday's Star in regard to housing. He hit the nail right on the head. Housing really is a serious matter here in Lincoln. The fact of the matter is, Mr. Dobler states, "There are a number of apartments listed but just check a few, and the rent."

See for yourself if an ordinary laborer can rent a clean place within his means. Most of us have to settle for a hole in the wall or bankrupt our salary.

Oak Lake Parking

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: On Sunday afternoon we decided to take a drive out to Oak Creek lake to watch the skaters and also to observe the new Oak Lake Park beautification project, and I was very unhappy to note the following.

As I see it, the cars will have to park in a specified area which is quite a distance from the lake. This arrangement will be very inconvenient for parents with small children. How nice it was for the little children to be able to sit in the cars so their parents could watch over them if they became sleepy, tired, or cold. Besides, a basket of food and a jug of water are necessities to have close at hand for the little ones.

Last summer when the cars were parked any distance from the lake, we would sit there expecting to see some child hit at any moment because they dashed back and forth to their parents' cars. This was especially true when cars were parked across the highway west of the lake. It is really a shame to deprive young mothers of a chance to breathe some fresh air for a few hours during the hot summer months, and at the same time have their children with them.

Who dreamed up this impractical parking set-up at Oak Lake? I am neither an old maid nor a bachelor, but I think I could have cooked up something better for the public. I am a Lincoln apartment house dweller who likes fresh air.

All-American Cities

(Editor's Note: Annually the Municipal League of America honors cities which have performed outstanding deeds of civic reform and improvement. Of the 11 honored recently three are in the Midwest area. Look Magazine tells how they did it.)

Is your city a good place to live in? Hundreds of American cities are not. They are being strangled by corruption, inefficient government, poor schools and crime. And paralyzing apathy among their citizens promises no improvement.

But hundreds of other cities are good places to live in today. Though these cities once had the same problems, they met them squarely.

This year, the National Municipal League and Look again honor 11 cities.

One hundred and fifteen cities were nominated for the All-America awards, and 22 finalists presented their cases to a jury, in Richmond, Va., at the National Conference on Government.

The 11 award-winning cities were Canton, Ohio; Daytona Beach, Fla.; De Soto, Mo.; Flint, Mich.; Park Forest, Ill.; Peoria, Ill.; Petersburg, Va.; Port Angeles, Wash.; Richmond, Calif.; Scranton, Pa., and Shreveport, La.

What earned the cities awards? In some cases, it was their war on crime, vice, gambling and political corruption. Others were cited for their campaigns for better schools, homes and hospitals; adequate streets, utilities and public buildings. Still others won recognition for a successful fight on postwar unemployment and business decline. The winning cities had one thing in common. Their citizens did something about their own problems.

DE SOTO, MO.

De Soto, only 45 miles south of St. Louis in the foothills of the Ozark Mountains, is a railroad town with 5,334 inhabitants. Between 1940 and 1950, De Soto's population increased only 333. The young people were leaving town as soon as they got out of high school.

The outstanding symptom of De Soto's ailment was lethargy. "De Soto is no good and we can't make it any better" was the objection raised when an improvement was proposed.

De Soto's City Hall had a leaky roof and whitewash was peeling off the 78-year-old structure. Most streets were unpaved. Many blocks had been without street lights since depression days when the city couldn't pay its light bill the poles were removed. There was nothing for young people to do except loaf around an ice-cream parlor.

Miraculously, the picture began to improve in 1948.

By 1953, the lethargy had vanished, and almost every resident was participating in civic affairs. Even teenagers were serving on committees to help plan De Soto's future.

New street lights went up all over town on a pay-as-you-go basis. Ugly store fronts were refurbished. More than 1100 persons helped transform an old furniture store into a club for teenagers.

Newly solvent, De Soto cut its taxes 30 per cent and was able to remodel the City Hall. Volunteers built a fire house at a cost of only $3,000. Seven acres of timberland, willed to the city as a park six years ago, finally began to function as a park because the citizens approved a caretaker's salary. Eighty blocks of streets were paved at half the normal cost, with the city doing the work with the co-operation of 1400 citizens. De Soto's 150th anniversary celebration attracted 25,000 visitors who watched 420 local "actors" participate in a pageant.

PEORIA, ILL.

"Peoria is one of the most wide-open cities in the country," a confidential survey made by a leading anti-vice group reported several years ago.

The second-largest city in Illinois was saddled with an archaic 22-man council, elected by wards, and with inefficient government. Last May, Peoria owed 279 creditors $360,000; many of the bills had gone unpaid for three years. An investigator charged that vice operators were paying several thousands of dollars a week for "protection."

In November, 1951, 244 men and women banded together as Peorians for Council Manager.

In a whirlwind three-week campaign, the good-government group made 32,000 phone calls urging voters to go to the polls. Four hundred volunteers addressed pamphlets explaining the issues. Groups members made 140 speeches. And, because the streets were ice-covered on election day, a car pool transported 2000 voters who were loath to walk to the polls. Council-manager government won 15,892 to 7,095.

The victory meant nothing, said the reformers, unless a city council of high caliber were to be elected. They began an un-paralleled campaign. More than a quarter-million pieces of mail went out in a three-month period. Several hundred speeches were made. The payoff came last April 7, election day. Five of the city council's eight members were PCM candidates. So was the new mayor.

Improvements came at once. The price Peoria paid for asphalt dropped from $12.50 to $9.45 a ton. A bond issue paid the city's debts, and all bills now are settled within 30 days.

In the new moral atmosphere the gambling joints closed their doors.

PARK FOREST, ILL.

Late in 1948, the first residents of Park Forest were moving into new homes on what had been a golf course and corn fields. Today, this Chicago suburb has a population of 21,000 and all the problems, both solved and unsolved, of rapid growth.

Not-for-profit corporations were established to build vitally needed grade schools. But getting a high school wasn't so easy. Rich Township, of which Park Forest was the center, included several smaller communities. These towns sent their children to neighboring high schools, paying tuition. They saw no need for a new school.

The school organizing committee faced another problem. Almost half of Park Forest was in another school district. Unless the village could withdraw from the district, it would not have enough bonding power to build a good school. Sixty volunteers, racing to beat a legal deadline, took a census of 5000 residents and passed out petitions. The boundary changes were effected, and an election was scheduled so voters could approve a $1,250,000 bond issue for the school.

Pamphlets were printed by the thousands. Sound trucks and baby-sitting teams helped get out the vote. The school bonds were approved over-all 4 to 1, but only 40 per cent of the voters outside Park Forest were for the school.

Lincoln Housing

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I have just finished reading Bill Dobler's article in Monday's Star in regard to housing. He hit the nail right on the head. Housing really is a serious matter here in Lincoln. The fact of the matter is, Mr. Dobler states, "There are a number of apartments listed but just check a few, and the rent."

See for yourself if an ordinary laborer can rent a clean place within his means. Most of us have to settle for a hole in the wall or bankrupt our salary.

Oak Lake Parking

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: On Sunday afternoon we decided to take a drive out to Oak Creek lake to watch the skaters and also to observe the new Oak Lake Park beautification project, and I was very unhappy to note the following.

As I see it, the cars will have to park in a specified area which is quite a distance from the lake. This arrangement will be very inconvenient for parents with small children. How nice it was for the little children to be able to sit in the cars so their parents could watch over them if they became sleepy, tired, or cold. Besides, a basket of food and a jug of water are necessities to have close at hand for the little ones.

Last summer when the cars were parked any distance from the lake, we would sit there expecting to see some child hit at any moment because they dashed back and forth to their parents' cars. This was especially true when cars were parked across the highway west of the lake. It is really a shame to deprive young mothers of a chance to breathe some fresh air for a few hours during the hot summer months, and at the same time have their children with them.

Who dreamed up this impractical parking set-up at Oak Lake? I am neither an old maid nor a bachelor, but I think I could have cooked up something better for the public. I am a Lincoln apartment house dweller who likes fresh air.

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

The former secretary of agriculture, Charles Brannan, no less a sincere, dedicated man than the present occupant of the responsible cabinet post, in Omaha Saturday night touched upon one of those quirks of human behavior that simply seems to be beyond the grasp of a lot of thinking in this country.

Less Income, More Effort

It is the contention of the present secretary of agriculture, Ezra Taft Benson, that high, rigid price supports of farm commodities contribute to food surpluses. A flexible program of supports, Mr. Benson insists, will eliminate in part or whole these surpluses. Theoretically, Mr. Benson's position is appealing. In the world of reality, there is nothing to support it. There is nothing in the record of American agriculture to which Mr. Benson may point that lends even the slightest support to his views. In Omaha Mr. Brannan pointed out that in the late 'twenties and early 'thirties, with agricultural surpluses mounting, with export business falling off seriously, and with the prices of farm commodities dropping to disastrous levels, the farmer continued to produce in surplus. If anything, he undertook to offset the loss in his individual income by producing more. There may be a type of industrial leadership, there may be a large element of urban population who will say that in those circumstances the farmer proved nothing but that he is "dumb." He should permit a portion of his fields to go unplanted. He should cut down on his production. He should let his land lie idle until consumption catches up with production. That ignores, of course, the gamble which the average farmer faces every planting season. When he prepares the ground and plants the seed, he has no way of knowing what he is going to produce. His is a hazardous occupation, confronted with unknown factors which contribute heavily to the gamble.

Accent On The Little

The reading public was only recently charmed by a scientific report of an atomic electric battery the size of a button leading the way to ultimate concentration of great power in a surprisingly small container.

Less spectacular but no less noteworthy was Business Week's recent announcement that diminutive transistors have reached the stage of development that they are ready to challenge the bulkier vacuum tubes in the important field of electronics.

America, once the place of bigness, has reversed its field. The accent now is on the microscopic. It is an interesting trend, speaking of a future of great power and versatility in minute packages, a story of conservation of resources—a saving which at the same time will place in the hand of man a great extension of his powers and activities, such versatility and effectiveness as he has hardly dreamed of. In these heady days we must remain steady. Despite our historic reverence for size, we must accept the fact that an atomic dart is chasing our majestic battleships into permanent drydock and that the world which once was ever so big is losing circumference at an appalling rate, concentrating our international problems just as they are concentrating our power plants into buttons.

Like Gentle Dew

The Eisenhower tax policy is being described as a new approach to national prosperity. It proposes to lend its help to the national economy by benefits at the top, in this case by tax lightening of some $3.5 billion to corporations and share holders. Such gratuities are expected to trickle down to the lowly from the top, like the gentle dew from heaven.

This may be a new approach to those who have forgotten or were not living during the late '20's but to those with good memories and their share of vivid scars, the trickle-down theory sounds suspiciously like the government loans and gratuities ex-President Herbert Hoover dished out at the top with the same effect in mind. It didn't work.

Begging For Simple Understanding

It is a matter of common experience that out on the farm, the less the margin of profit, the more feverishly the farmer toils in the hopes of offsetting a diminishing income. The more his costs mount, the harder he battles to keep his head above water. The ideal situation would be, of course, to produce only what can be consumed here at home or sold abroad profitably, but in the instance of farming, the ideal is more elusive, and for good solid reason, than any other undertaking in which men are engaged. It is not simply a question of ordering the wheels to stop, or directing that a portion of the equipment shall not be employed for a fixed period. The farmer has his equipment to farm all of his acres, and he never is sure what the harvest will bring.

Mr. Brannan found himself a target for criticism.

It never mounted to the volume of that now directed against Secretary Benson, and the reason for that, we believe, is that Mr. Brannan understood agriculture much better than does Mr. Benson. The latter does not seem to have experienced the thrill, so much a part of human flesh itself, that comes from the abundant harvest. He shivers at the thought of abundance. He croaks and he moans because of surplus. When he thinks about the farm, it is in terms of the factory. He rules out the uncertainties of weather, and of other misfortune. He reduces farming to a mathematical computation. Just now a portion of the press, a lot of the magazines, and a powerful bloc in this country are busily engaged in extolling Mr. Benson's sincerity, his lofty purposes. That is fine, but its contribution to an understanding of the farm problem is something else again.

One January Record

The emphasis is upon safety upon the Nebraska highways.

Unfortunately the record points in the opposite direction. When January of this still-young year of 1954 came to a close, there had been 27 automobile fatalities in Nebraska, compared to 12 a year ago. Actually the month produced more traffic casualties terminating fatally than any other similar period on record.

It is not too late to correct this grim story of death on the highways. It seemed after a flying start in 1953 that highway accidents got out of hand, and in the last three months of the year, due to early darkness and a number of other factors, the death rate mounted surprisingly. There are, we assume, accidents which can be classified as inevitable. But the great majority can be charged up to human factors involving carelessness or the willingness to take a chance, a chance that ends tragically.

The American people have put their shoulders to the wheel in combating the better known killers when it comes to disease. The highway toll continues to mount, year after year, until at this time each 12 months it contributes more deaths than generally occur on the battlefield.

One Year And 10 Days

On January 20, the first anniversary of President Eisenhower's inauguration was observed. During that first year he was happiest in the handling of international affairs. The shooting war in Korea came to a close, the Japanese peace treaty was completed, the defenses to be built under NATO appeared to be moving forward.

It is a little short of incredible that one of the major issues to cast its shadows over the country today comes in the form of the Bricker amendment to limit the effectiveness of the chief executive on international matters and to push matters of much greater concern to the American people completely out of the spotlight.

Yet that is what has taken place. The New York Times earlier in January suggested that a proposal, at once so revolutionary and so retrogressive, nevertheless has become of major concern. Then it adds:

"The Bricker amendment is thoroughly bad, there is no reason to compromise with it. It is true that the Senate should require at least a roll call vote when a treaty is up for ratification; but this reform could be effected by a simple change in Senate rules. What the Bricker amendment does is to return to the Articles of Confederation and to express the Senators' profound mistrust in itself as well as in the Chief Executive. It is a counsel of fear and retreat when courage and boldness are needed."

To go one step beyond that, a roll call vote is desirable in the Senate not only when treaties are up for consideration but when any matters of importance come before that body. This was one of the basic recommendations of congressional reform some years ago. The members of the Nebraska Unicameral Legislature simply register their own votes by pushing an electric button. The idea of calling out the names of each individual member of either one or two members of Congress in order to obtain a roll call is so far behind the times as to suggest that what the country needs is not the Bricker amendment but a little streamlining in congressional procedure.

The legislative branch has been wasting its time and energies throughout the closing week of January in a feverish search to hit upon a happy compromise to avoid a clash between two factions in the Republican party. The chief concern has been to avoid a head-on collision in order to avert an open party split. It is simply a matter of expediency in preventing an explosion that might endanger party chances in a congressional election year.

If the purpose is to secure a roll call vote on treaties, no amendment is needed for that purpose. The result can be obtained through simple agreement to change Senate procedure. If there is something more substantial, then that is an entirely different matter.

Nothing can wipe out the fact that a great deal of time is being wasted upon an amendment that was bad in the beginning, and that has not been revised, apparently, sufficiently to meet with executive acceptance. Congress should give the Bricker amendment the old heave-ho and get along with its business.

His is a hazardous occupation, confronted with unknown factors which contribute heavily to the gamble.

He is not in the position of the factory owner who closes his plant for a month and in closing it, cuts off a portion of the expense of operation. But there is still another factor inherent in farming that simply does not seem to have any place in Mr. Benson's thinking. There is the quality of fierce pride in his love of soil. When a farmer looks out over his field of wheat or corn, promising in the sunlight, that farmer derives a certain measure of satisfaction from the knowledge that his land is good, fertile, productive. There is that love of growing things, an instinct which goes deep to the soul of man, and which though it may be his own undoing in terms of surplus, nevertheless is there.

It is a matter of common experience that out on the farm, the less the margin of profit, the more feverishly the farmer toils in the hopes of offsetting a diminishing income. ## Treasury Opposed To Dropping Excise Tax

WASHINGTON—The "Vigilant Women for the Bricker Amendment" have been swarming over Capitol Hill corridors, buttonholing congressmen, beleaguering senators, and planting "news" bulletins in automobiles.

One of them accosted Wisconsin's Sen. Alexander Wiley, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, who although she did not seem to know it—has been leading the fight against the Bricker amendment. "I'm sorry, Madam," interrupted the kindly senator after the "vigilante" had extolled the virtues of Brickerism. "But I can't change my mind on this subject. I've made my position clear and I'm going to stick to it."

"I just wish you were my husband for a few days," cooed the lady, shaking her finger. "I'd soon change your mind!" "Madam," replied the senator-diplomat, "if that situation should ever develop, I'd show you that I'm a real caveman at heart."

VANISHING BILLION?

Treasury Department chiefs are hopping mad at the man who's piloting the Eisenhower program through the House of Representatives—amiable, hard-working speaker Joe Martin. Joe came out with a compromise plan for dropping excise taxes which will lose the treasury a cool one billion dollars and both Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey and Assistant Secretary Randolph Burgess are most unhappy.

Furthermore, they have communicated their views vigorously to the President, who is having a session with Speaker Martin.

The issue involved is much more important than any clash between important personalities. It illustrates how closely the present government deficit has been figured, and how carefully the Treasury will have to tax in order not to go deeper in the red.

What happened was that Uncle Dan Reed, 78-year-old ruler of the House Ways and Means committee, proposes ending excise taxes. Excise taxes which now bring in three and a half billion a year are due to expire in April and Reed would not renew them. However, the Treasury feels that this money is desperately needed in order not to throw the budget further out of balance. So Secretary Humphrey proposes continuing these taxes after April.

Hoping to keep peace between the Treasury and the man who dictates over the tax-writing committee on Capitol Hill and who, incidentally, is not the easiest man to get along with, Speaker Martin proposed a compromise. He suggested splitting the difference and dropping a billion dollars worth of excise taxes. Even this drop of one billion, however, gave Humphrey and Burgess a jolt. With income taxes reduced, they are scratching around for every penny and every billion they can lay hands on. That's why they're taking the issue to the White House.

HOW TO HEAL WOUNDS

Harold Russell, the armless war vet who played the part of sailor "Homer Parrish" in the movie, "The Best Years of Our Lives," was telling President Eisenhower the other day about some of his problems as rehabilitation director of the World Veterans Federation.

"We embrace all nations not dominated by Moscow and you can well imagine the diplomacy that must be employed at our conventions when you consider that we have vet delegates from such unfriendly nations as Israel and Egypt, West Germany and France, and Italy and Yugoslavia," said Russell.

"Very interesting," commented Ike. "I suppose the competing groups sit on opposite sides."

"Oh, no, on the contrary, we try to seat them together, but first we try to arrange luncheons where delegations from antagonistic nations can air their views on a subject of mutual interest," Russell explained. "At one of our meetings we arranged a luncheon between Egyptian and Israeli delegates, at which the problem of rehabilitation was discussed."

"It proved highly successful, because both delegations naturally were interested in improving the economic stability of their homelands. In a situation like that, it always helps to get opposing factions talking about a noncontroversial subject of mutual interest."

The President remarked that he had once used somewhat the same technique at a meeting while he was president of Columbia University.

"There was a great deal of tension and controversy at this meeting until I introduced a completely neutral subject. I got the conferees talking about babies. This was something everyone was interested in and liked to talk about. With the conferees thus relaxed and in a friendlier mood, we moved on to the important agenda of the meeting."

MARQUIS CHILDS

Trouble Over Beeson Selection For NLRB

WASHINGTON—The nomination of Albert C. Beeson, California industrial executive, to the National Labor Relations Board has brought a sharper and more clear-cut conflict between Republicans and Democrats than almost anything that has happened since the Eisenhower administration took over. The six Democrats comprising the minority on the Senate Labor Committee unanimously opposed the nomination and it seems likely to become an issue in the fall campaign.

One thing the minority did succeed in doing, after a blast of protest, was to get the hearing into the Beeson nomination reopened on at least an informal basis. They claimed that they had not been given time to interrogate Beeson and that other witnesses wanting to oppose his confirmation were prevented from testifying.

A report prepared for the minority charges that because Beeson has so long represented management in the labor-management area, he could not be impartial as a member of the quasi-judicial NLRB. In the course of the hearings it was developed that the present chairman of the board, Guy Farmer, who recommended Beeson's nomination to the President, was retained by Beeson's company in disputes before the NLRB.

This, it was charged, would give management two certain votes. Farmer was formerly with the law firm of Steptoe and Johnson in which the leading figure is Louis Johnson, a Democrat and Secretary of Defense under President Truman.

In question also in the hearings is Beeson's denial that he told a reporter for the San Jose (California) Mercury that he was taking a year's leave of absence from his $30,000 a year job with the Food Machinery Corporation to serve on the NLRB for an interim one-year appointment. The paper promptly asserted in a news story and an editorial that Beeson had made the statement to their reporter, in whom they had complete confidence.

Trade union executives have made indignant statements denouncing the appointment. That was to be expected. But the language of the minority report is exceptionally strong.

"We know of no previous nomination to the National Labor Relations Board, certainly in recent times," the minority declared, "against which the representatives of either labor or management so strongly protested."

According to the minority report, which may or may not be filed, depending on what happens in the reopened hearings, no member of the board has ever been appointed directly from the ranks of labor or management. "Past administrations," the report states, "never appointed an active union official to the board and we do not feel that in good conscience we could support such an appointment any more than we can support an active management representative."

The Democrats do not challenge Beeson's ability or his integrity. The question is whether in view of his long championship of management he can act impartially.

Impartiality must always be a relative matter. And certainly the record of the NLRB shows some mighty black spots. It was one of the agencies dominated in the late thirties and early forties by pro-Communists who teamed up with some of the most ruthless elements in the labor field to override all opposition. This scandalous period did great harm to the cause of orderly, fair labor relations under government regulation.

What the Democrats profess to fear is that with management representatives in the majority the board will go to another extreme. Republican members reply that the mere fact of Beeson's connections should not constitute a prejudice against him. They insist that with his ability and background he can reach decisions impartially as between labor and management.

In the troubled labor-management field impartiality is particularly hard to come by. In contrast to the preceding Democratic administration, President Eisenhower named a trade union official, Martin Durkin, as his secretary of labor. Durkin resigned last fall charging that pledges made to him about proposed changes in the Taft-Hartley act were violated. This blasted administration hopes of winning over the more moderate wing of organized labor.

Eisenhower named James P. Mitchell, a specialist in labor-management relations to be Durkin's successor. While Mitchell's appointment was not widely acclaimed by organized labor, he was regarded among union officials as one who undertook to be impartial and fair, and he has begun to win their confidence. In private conversation Mitchell said he doubted the wisdom of the government-supervised strike vote, making it clear this proposal originated with the Secretary of Commerce.

Before testifying before the Senate Labor Committee, Secretary Mitchell appeared to be caught in the toils of administration policy. In the view of organized labor and many Democrats, his impartiality was strained to the breaking point. And the hopes of a practical working relationship between the unions and the administration is doubtful.

All-American Cities

(Editor's Note: Annually the Municipal League of America honors cities which have performed outstanding deeds of civic reform and improvement. Of the 11 honored recently three are in the Midwest area. Look Magazine tells how they did it.)

Is your city a good place to live in? Hundreds of American cities are not. They are being strangled by corruption, inefficient government, poor schools and crime. And paralyzing apathy among their citizens promises no improvement. But hundreds of other cities are good places to live in today. Though these cities once had the same problems, they met them squarely.

This year, the National Municipal League and Look again honor 11 cities.

One hundred and fifteen cities were nominated for the All-American awards, and 22 finalists presented their cases to a jury in Richmond, Va., at the National Conference on Government.

The 11 award-winning cities were Canton, Ohio; Daytona Beach, Fla.; De Soto, Mo.; Flint, Mich.; Park Forest, Ill.; Peoria, Ill.; Peabody, Mass.; Port Angeles, Wash.; Richmond, Calif.; Scranton, Pa., and Shreveport, La.

What earned the cities awards? In some cases, it was their war on crime, vice, gambling and political corruption. Others were cited for their campaigns for better schools, homes and hospitals; adequate streets, utilities and public buildings. Still others won recognition for a successful fight on postwar unemployment and business decline. The winning cities had one thing in common. Their citizens did something about their own problems.

DE SOTO, MO.

De Soto, only 45 miles south of St. Louis in the foothills of the Ozark Mountains, is a railroad town with 5,334 inhabitants. Between 1940 and 1950, De Soto's population increased only 333. The young people were leaving town as soon as they got out of high school.

The outstanding symptom of De Soto's ailment was lethargy. "De Soto is no good and we can't make it any better" was the objection raised when an improvement project was proposed.

De Soto's City Hall had a leafy roof and whitewash was peeling off the 78-year-old structure. Most streets were unpaved. Many blocks had been without street lights since depression days when the city couldn't pay its light bill the poles were removed. There was nothing for young people to do except loaf around an ice-cream parlor.

Miraculously, the picture began to improve in 1948.

By 1953, the lethargy had vanished, and almost every resident was participating in civic affairs. Even teenagers were serving on committees to help plan De Soto's future.

New street lights went up all over town on a pay-as-you-go basis. Ugly store fronts were refurbished. More than 1100 persons helped transform an old furniture store into a club for teenagers.

Newly solvent, De Soto cut its taxes 30 per cent and was able to remodel the City Hall. Volunteers built a fire house at a cost of only $3,000. Seven acres of timberland, willed to the city as a park six years ago, finally began to function as a park because the citizens approved a caretaker's salary. Eighty blocks of streets were paved at half the normal cost, with the city doing the work with the co-operation of 1400 citizens. De Soto's 150th anniversary celebration attracted 25,000 visitors who watched 420 local "actors" participate in a pageant.

PEORIA, ILL.

"Peoria is one of the most wide-open cities in the country," a confidential survey made by a leading anti-vice group reported several years ago.

The second-largest city in Illinois was saddled with an archaic 22-man council, elected by wards, and with inefficient government. Last May, Peoria owed 279 creditors $350,000; many of the bills had gone unpaid for three years. An investigator charged that vice operators were paying several thousands of dollars a week for "protection."

In November, 1951, 244 men and women banded together as Peorians for Council Managem.

In a whirlwind three-week campaign, the good-government group made 32,000 phone calls urging voters to go to the polls. Four hundred volunteers addressed pamphlets explaining the issues. Groups members made 140 speeches. And, because the streets were ice-covered on election day, a car pool transported 2000 voters who were loath to walk to the polls. Council-manager government won 15,892 to 7,095.

The victory meant nothing, said the reformers, unless a city council of high caliber were to be elected. They began an unparalleled campaign. More than a quarter-million pieces of mail went out in a three-month period. Several hundred speeches were made. The payoff came last April 7, election day. Five of the city council's eight members were PCM candidates. So was the new mayor.

Improvements came at once. The price Peoria paid for asphalt dropped from $12.50 to $9.45 a ton. A bond issue paid the city's debts and bills now are settled within 30 days.

In the new moral atmosphere, the gambling joints closed their doors.

PARK FOREST, ILL.

Late in 1948, the first residents of Park Forest were moving into new homes on what had been a golf course and corn fields. Today, this Chicago suburb has a population of 21,000 and all the problems, both solved and unsolved, of rapid growth.

Not-for-profit corporations were established to build vitally needed grade schools. But getting a high school wasn't so easy. Rich Township, of which Park Forest was the center, included several smaller communities. These towns sent their children to neighboring high schools, paying tuition. They saw no need for a new school.

The school organizing committee faced another problem. Almost half of Park Forest was in another school district. Unless the village could withdraw from the district, it would not have enough bonding power to build a good school. Sixty volunteers, racing to beat a legal deadline, took a census of 5000 residents and passed out petitions. The boundary changes were effected, and an election was scheduled so voters could approve a $1,250,000 bond issue for the school.

Pamphlets were printed by the thousands. Sound trucks and baby-sitting teams helped get out the vote. The school bonds were approved over-all 4 to 1, but only 40 per cent of the voters outside Park Forest were for the school.

Lincoln Housing

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I have just finished reading Bill Dobler's article in Monday's Star in regard to housing. He hit the nail right on the head. Housing really is a serious matter here in Lincoln. The fact of the matter is, as Mr. Dobler states, "There are a number of apartments listed but just check a few, and the rent."

See for yourself if an ordinary laborer can rent a clean place within his means. Most of us have to settle for a hole in the wall or bankrupt our salary.

Oak Lake Parking

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: On Sunday afternoon we decided to take a drive out to Oak Creek lake to watch the skaters and also to observe the new Oak Lake Park beautification project, and I was very unhappy to note the following.

As I see it, the cars will have to park in a specified area which is quite a distance from the lake. This arrangement will be very inconvenient for parents with small children. How nice it was for the little children to be able to sit in the cars so their parents could watch over them if they became sleepy, tired, or cold. Besides, a basket of food and a jug of water are necessities that have close at hand for the little ones.

Last summer when the cars were parked any distance from the lake, we would sit there expecting to see some child hit at any moment because they dashed back and forth to their parents' cars. This was especially true when cars were parked across the highway west of the lake. It is really a shame to deprive young mothers of a chance to breathe some fresh air for a few hours during the hot summer months and at the same time have their children with them.

Who dreamed up this impractical parking set-up at Oak Lake? I am neither an old maid nor a bachelor, but I think I could have cooked up something better for the public. I am a Lincoln apartment house dweller who likes fresh air.

PRAYER FOR PEACE

From everything that might

And bombs that shatter when they fall,

Instead of striving to be right,

Lord, save us all.

From mad destruction, sea and air,

Till nations fall,

Instead of striving to be fair,

Lord, save us all.

To think in terms of what is good

And this recall,

That peace may lie in brotherhood,

Lord, help us all.

Over $1,400 Taken From Hildreth Co-operative

FRANKLIN, Neb. (P)—Sheriff Lloyd Davison Monday reported the theft of more than $1,400 from the Farmers Co-operative at Hildreth.

Davison said the building was broken into and the safe blown. Eight hundred dollars in checks were recovered.

The sheriff said officers in three states were working on the case.

Medical Deans Will Head '54 Heart Drive

OMAHA (P)—The deans of Nebraska's two medical schools have been appointed associate chairmen for the 1954 Nebraska Heart Fund drive.

Mrs. Donald W. Clarke of Hastings, chairman of the drive, said Monday that Dr. James Perry Tullman, dean of the University of Nebraska College of Medicine, and Dr. Frederick G. Gillick, dean of Creighton University School of Medicine, have accepted the appointments.

In a joint statement the two deans said "there are 20 forms of heart disease which have been discovered mainly through research projects. Of these, coronary heart disease, hypertensive heart disease and rheumatic heart disease count for approximately 90 per cent of the total cases. Though the causes of these three have yet to be discovered, the outlook is hopeful that both causes and controls will be discovered in the not-too-distant future."

Prompt Treatment Urged

"It is now known that prompt and efficient medical treatment of streptococcal sore throat with penicillin may prevent development of rheumatic fever. Notable surgical procedures also have been perfected, remarkable tools have been developed for the diagnosis and study of these diseases, and many new drugs have been formulated that are effective in the care and treatment of heart diseases."

"The aforementioned, however, has been accomplished only through research, which was sponsored by the gifts our friends in Nebraska and other states have offered to the heart association each February," the deans said.

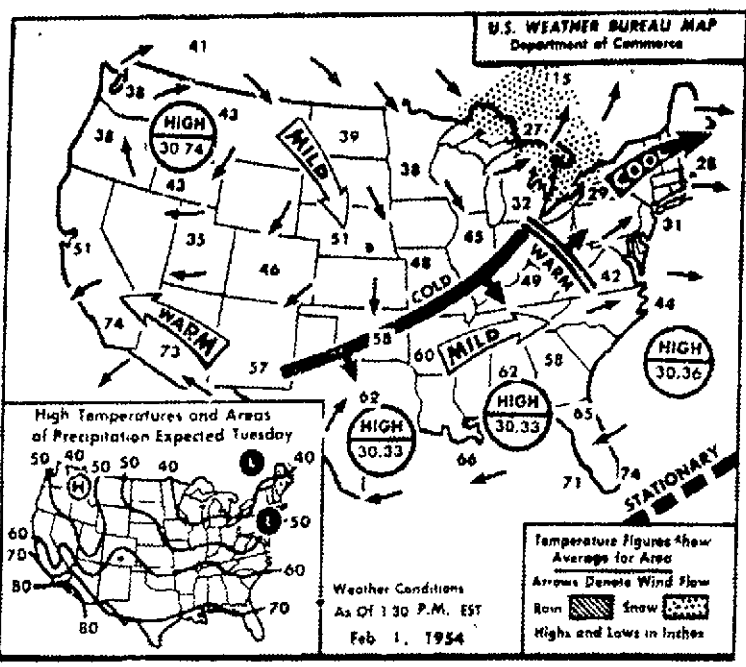

Since 1948 Nebraska and other states have contributed more than $6,500,000 for research projects to combat disease of the heart and blood vessel systems, the medical men said.

Same Temps, Clear Or Cloudy

No snow or rain is forecast for the nation Tuesday with the exception of Maine where some snow is expected. Clear to partly cloudy skies will be the rule throughout the country with little or no change in temperature. The middle Atlantic states will be warmer, however, with the mercury expected to reach the 50s. (AP Wirephoto Monday Night.)

Marines Set Up Unique Plan For March Of Dimes

HASTINGS, Neb. (INS)—The Adams County March of Dimes fund has gained $111.84 through the efforts of Marines at the Hastings Navy Ammunition Depot to get 24-hour passes.

Sergeant John Ashenbaum put a small glass at the bottom of a large pickle jar, filled the jar with water and closed it with a slotted cap. The Marines were allowed to drop coins through the slot and those whose coins fell inside the small glass qualified for leave.

Forty-one of the 140 Marines were successful.

Omahans To Hear Gen. Gruenther

OMAHA (P)—Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, former Nebraskan and now commanding general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) in Paris, will speak at a public dinner in Omaha Friday, March 12.

He is one of several persons of renown scheduled to appear at Chamber of Commerce public affairs dinners in connection with Omaha's Centennial celebration.

Gen. Gruenther will speak on "Defense of the Free World." Maj. Alexander P. Seversky, authority on air power, will speak at a dinner tentatively set for March 29.

Tentative acceptance has been received from Gen. Mark Clark, former U. N. commander in Korea and now president of the Citadel, a military college in South Carolina.

Stringfellow Sees Approval Of Ike's Housing Program

OMAHA (P)—A freshman congressman from Utah who just recently was named one of the nation's 10 outstanding young men said here Monday President Eisenhower's recent housing message typified the new administration.

"His program called for help, but not handouts," observed Rep. Douglas R. Stringfellow (R-Utah), here to make a speech to the Ad-Sell League.

He predicted Congress will pass the President's housing program pretty much as Eisenhower recommended.

The 30-year-old former radio and television commentator is a member of the House Banking and Currency Committee which will begin hearings on the legislation in about a month.

Stringfellow said the President's provisions for liberalizing home improvement loans and providing more mortgage funds are most important.

He termed himself an "Eisenhower liberal" and declared: "I'm liberal enough to want to help our own people but conservative enough to want to balance the budget."

Stringfellow's selection as one of the nation's 10 outstanding young men of 1953 was made by the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Child Recovering From Bad Burns

LINCOLN STAR SPECIAL

ST. PAUL, Neb.—Danny, two-and-a-half-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Jares, St. Paul farmer, received painful burns, described as third degree when he sat down into a pan of boiling water. He is recovering satisfactorily in a local hospital.

The accident occurred as his mother was picking ducks and was using the container with the water for scalding purposes. The child backed into the pan.

Baby Abandoned At Chadron Home

CHADRON, Neb. (P)—Chadron police Monday attempted to identify a newborn "doorstep baby."

Myron Amick told officers when he arrived home at 12:15 a.m. he found the newborn boy abandoned on his porch. He called police at once and the infant was taken to a hospital, where it was reported in good condition Monday.

Police so far have been unable to learn who the child's parents are.

Northwestern's Rate Hearing Set For March 15

The State Railway Commission has set March 15 for the hearing on the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.'s latest request for a rate increase.

Deadline for filing exhibits in the case is Feb. 19.

The proposed increase would be the fifth the company has had since 1928. The company seeks an additional $460,800 in net revenue.

The last increase granted the company, effective in March, 1953, was designed to produce $451,000 a year in added net revenue.

The proposed increase would range up to 50 cents a month for one-party residence service, depending on the size of the exchange. But in cities which are being stepped up into a higher bracket because of the growth in the number of subscribers, the actual increase would be somewhat more.

Fremont, North Platte, Sidney and Alliance are among these cities.

Lutheran Council Will Discuss Refugee Problem, 1954 Budget

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (P)—Spiritual leaders of 4½ million U. S. Lutherans met here to grapple with a host of problems challenging their church.

Homes for refugees, funds for college student centers and the 1954 budget are a few of the items on the program for the annual four-day meeting of the National Lutheran Council.

The council is a Protestant body uniting eight Lutheran Church groups with 10,000 local congregations and 4½ million members.

Finding ways to help refugees and other persons displaced from their homes in Europe by war and political persecution is one major task facing the 34 council delegates.

Resettling Program

Under the refugee relief act of 1953, the nation's doors swung open to 200,000 refugees. They are to be admitted in the next three years, and the council believes a large number of them will be Lutherans.

This week the council plans to work out a program for resettling the refugees throughout the country.

Council sessions will be presided over by the Rev. Dr. Oscar Benson of Minneapolis, Minn., president of the group. Dr. Benson is also head of the Augustana Lutheran Church, one of the eight council members.

Presidents of six other member churches are expected to attend. They are:

Drs. Henry F. Schuh, Columbus, Ohio, American Lutheran Church; J. A. Aasgaard, Minneapolis, Evangelical Lutheran Church; T. O. Burnstedt, Minneapolis, Lutheran Free Church; Hans C. Hersfeld, Blair, Neb., United Evangelical Church; John Wargelin, Hancock, Mich., Finnish Evangelical Lutheran Church (Suomi Synod); Alred Jensen, Des Moines, Iowa, American Evangelical Lutheran Church.

Tuttle Creek Story Slated On Feb. 11

Farmers from the Blue Valley of Kansas will present the Tuttle Creek story at 8 p.m. Feb. 11 on the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture. The meeting is scheduled for Room 244, Agronomy Building.

A film will be shown which will advocate having Congress stop Tuttle Creek Dam. A question-and-answer period will also be held.

The meeting is sponsored by the Agronomy and Agricultural Economics Clubs of the University of Nebraska.

Over $1,400 Taken From Hildreth Co-operative

FRANKLIN, Neb. (P)—Sheriff Lloyd Davison Monday reported the theft of more than $1,400 from the Farmers Co-operative at Hildreth.

Davison said the building was broken into and the safe blown. Eight hundred dollars in checks were recovered.

The sheriff said officers in three states were working on the case.

Medical Deans Will Head '54 Heart Drive

OMAHA (P)—The deans of Nebraska's two medical schools have been appointed associate chairmen for the 1954 Nebraska Heart Fund drive.

Mrs. Donald W. Clarke of Hastings, chairman of the drive, said Monday that Dr. James Perry Tollman, dean of the University of Nebraska College of Medicine; and Dr. Frederick G. Gillick, dean of Creighton University School of Medicine, have accepted the appointments.

In a joint statement the two deans said "there are 20 forms of heart disease which have been discovered mainly through research projects. Of these, coronary heart disease, hypertensive heart disease and rheumatic heart disease count for approximately 90 per cent of the total cases. Though the causes of these three have yet to be discovered, the outlook is hopeful that both causes and controls will be discovered in the not-too-distant future."

Prompt Treatment Urged

"It is now known that prompt and efficient medical treatment of streptococcal sore throat with penicillin may prevent development of rheumatic fever. Notable surgical procedures also have been perfected, remarkable tools have been developed for the diagnosis and study of these diseases, and many new drugs have been formulated that are effective in the care and treatment of heart diseases."

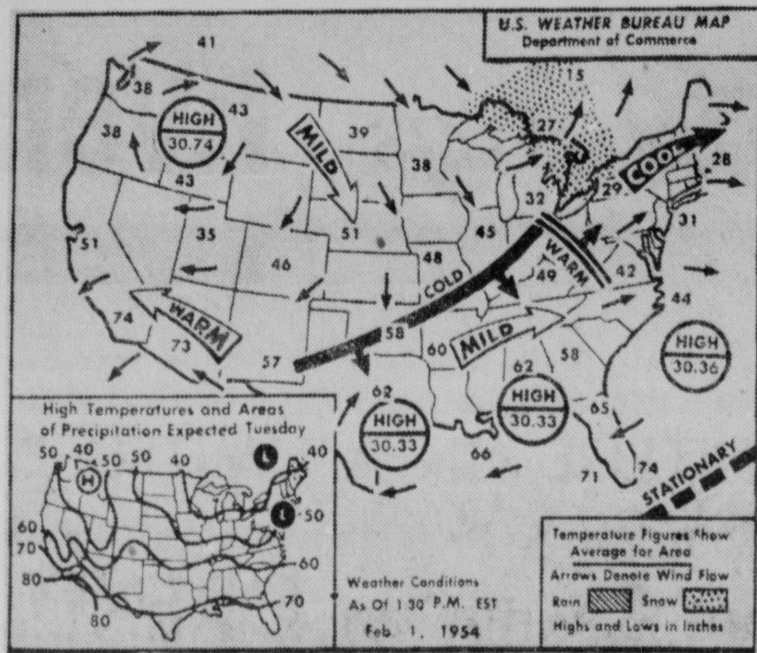

"The aforementioned, however, has been accomplished only through research, which was sponsored by the gifts our friends in Nebraska and other states have offered to the heart association each February," the deans said.

Since 1948 Nebraska and other states have contributed more than $6,500,000 for research projects to combat disease of the heart and blood vessel systems, the medical men said.

Marines Set Up Unique Plan For March Of Dimes

HASTINGS, Neb. (INS)—The Adams County March of Dimes fund has gained $111.84 through the efforts of Marines at the Hastings Navy Ammunition Depot to get 24-hour passes.

Sergeant John Ashenbaum put a small glass at the bottom of a large pickle jar, filled the jar with water and closed it with a slotted cap. The Marines were allowed to drop coins through the slot and those whose coins fell inside the small glass qualified for leave.

Forty-one of the 140 Marines were successful.

Omahans To Hear Gen. Gruenther

OMAHA (P)—Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, former Nebraskan and now commanding general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) in Paris, will speak at a public dinner in Omaha Friday, March 12.

Gen. Gruenther will speak on "Defense of the Free World." Maj. Alexander P. Seversky, authority on air power, will speak at a dinner tentatively set for March 29.

President's Soil Expense Proposal Said Long Overdue

WASHINGTON (P)—Sen. Butler (R-Neb.) declared Monday the President's recommendation that soil conservation expenses be made a permissible tax deduction is long overdue.

Butler said in a statement he had "advocated such a change for a long time" and had introduced such a bill in the Senate at the start of the last sessions of Congress. He said while his bill and the President's recommendation are "not exactly parallel, they are aimed at accomplishing the same thing."

Deduction Limited

The President's recommendation limits the allowable tax deduction to 25 per cent of the gross income of the person claiming the deduction. Sen. Butler's bill, S. 220, places no such limit and would permit a deduction in any amount.

Butler said he believes Congress will adopt a law along the lines of his bill, but he added, "Either proposal will be welcome and will provide the necessary incentive to further conservation practices."

Hemingford Rancher Is Critically Injured

HEMINGFORD, Neb. (P)—James Planansky, 83-year-old Hemingford rancher, was critically hurt in a one-car accident 12 miles west of here. Planansky was reported in "poor" condition in an Alliance hospital.

Stringfellow Sees Approval Of Ike's Housing Program

OMAHA (P)—A freshman congressman from Utah who just recently was named one of the nation's 10 outstanding young men said here Monday President Eisenhower's recent housing message typified the new administration.

"His program called for help, but not handouts," observed Rep. Douglas R. Stringfellow (R-Utah), here to make a speech to the Ad-Sell League.

He predicted Congress will pass the President's housing program pretty much as Eisenhower recommended.

The 30-year-old former radio and television commentator is a member of the House Banking and Currency Committee which will begin hearings on the legislation in about a month.

Stringfellow said the President's provisions for liberalizing home improvement loans and providing more mortgage funds are most important.

He termed himself an "Eisenhower liberal" and declared:

"I'm liberal enough to want to help our own people but conservative enough to want to balance the budget."

Stringfellow's selection as one of the nation's 10 outstanding young men of 1953 was made by the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Northwestern's Rate Hearing Set For March 15

The State Railway Commission has set March 15 for the hearing on the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.'s latest request for a rate increase.

Deadline for filing exhibits in the case is Feb. 19.

The proposed increase would be the fifth the company has had since 1928. The company seeks an additional $460,800 in net revenue.

The last increase granted the company, effective in March, 1953, was designed to produce $451,000 a year in added net revenue.

The proposed increase would range up to 50 cents a month for one-party residence service, depending on the size of the exchange. But in cities which are being stepped up into a higher bracket because of the growth in the number of subscribers, the actual increase would be somewhat more.

Fremont, North Platte, Sidney and Alliance are among these cities.

Lutheran Council Will Discuss Refugee Problem, 1954 Budget

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (P)—Spiritual leaders of 4½ million U. S. Lutherans met here to grapple with a host of problems challenging their church.

Finding ways to help refugees and other persons displaced from their homes in Europe by war and political persecution is one major task facing the 34 council delegates.

Under the refugee relief act of 1953, the nation's doors swung open to 200,000 refugees. They are to be admitted in the next year.

Never too busy to be Good Neighbors

The number one job of telephone people is to provide you with fast, dependable telephone service.

But telephone people do more than that. They are good citizens—taking their full part in the civic activities and responsibilities of your city. They are busy—but not too busy to be helpful and friendly neighbors.

More than half the money this company receives for telephone service goes to its employees as wages. LT&T men and women now receive over $4,500,000 annually, most of which is spent in cities in which they live.

Rep. Miller Refuses To Give Okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Harrison (R-Wyo.) said Monday the House Reclamation Subcommittee will consider the proposed upper Colorado River development plan at executive sessions in the near future.

No dates have been set, he said. The subcommittee completed 10 days of open hearings on the four-state project last Thursday.

Chairman Miller (R-Neb.) of the House Interior Committee, part body of the Reclamation Bureau, has refused to clear the Interior Department's $1,131,643,000 recommendation for the plan.

He said Monday that this statement may have been misunderstood, though he believed it was "essentially correct." Budget Bureau officials insisted that the bureau had not acted on the proposal, that it was awaiting recommendations from other government departments.

Miller said he understood the Budget Bureau is re-studying the project. Harrison's subcommittee may act on legislation to authorize the upper Colorado basin program without Budget Bureau approval if it so desires.

Harrison said that if the subcommittee needs additional information a request will be made to the Budget Bureau for it.

ON THE surface Lincoln appears to be a very tired town at the moment—but if you try a little digging here and there you're bound to hit pay dirt in the way of news.—We did not find any tidbits that would grow unto monumental structures, but we managed to unearth a little of this and that that makes a Tuesday in February quite worth while.

HEARD, for instance, that Mrs. Ira D. Beynon is spending a few days in Lincoln—and that Miss Ann Beynon, who attended the University of Maryland last semester, has come back to finish this year—and probably others—at the University of Nebraska. Mrs. Beynon accompanied her daughter to Lincoln, settled her in the Delta Gamma house, and has a few days left over to visit with friends.

THERE seems to be an epidemic of moving out of Coloma Village way — You already know that Mr. and Mrs. Flavel Wright purchased the home of Mrs. O. V. Calhoun and the late Dr. Calhoun at 2510 So. 24th, and will be moving soon.—The Dale Tinstmans—Mr. and Mrs.—have purchased the Flavel Wright home at 3117 Alden — and we've already told you that Dr. and Mrs. John A. Brown III, are moving out of the Village—having purchased the former residence of Dr. and Mrs. John Peterson.

THAT Junior League party that usually is held in January—but was planned for April 17 this year—has undergone another change. The party, a dinner dance, is to be held on Saturday evening, May 1, at the Lincoln Country Club —It suddenly dawned on someone, you see, that April 17 was Easter Saturday.

THERE were no changes in the plan of the Colonial Dancing club, however.—The members dined and danced Monday evening at Hotel Cornhusker —In charge of the party arrangements was a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Chase, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Brownfield; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Forke, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Groth, Mr. and Mrs. E. Sheldon Hallett, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Hale, Dr. and Mrs. Harold Heliweg, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Koch, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Lunde, Mr. and Mrs. E. Edmunds Miller and Dr. and Mrs. Paul Thorough. Guests of the club included Dr. and Mrs. Maynard Wood, Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Fijan, Dr. and Mrs. Carl George, Dean and Mrs. J. P. Colbert, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Leary, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Becker, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Austin of Omaha.

SOMEONE told us that Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rogers left early Monday morning for California where they will spend several weeks at Palm Springs—

LEAVING one day soon for Cleveland, we hear, will be Elsworth DuTeau who will be speaker at the Cleveland Nebraska Alumni club's Charter day festivities on Feb. 12. Miss Katherine Matchett, by the way, is president of the Cleveland club.

HEAR that there is to be a meeting of the Sapsam clan in Omaha next Sunday evening.—The only Omaha member of this masculine cooking club, is Lyle DeMoss who is to be the host—ably assisted, of course, by Mrs. DeMoss.

The Lincoln Sapsams and their wives who will go to Omaha for the Sunday night supper include Mr. and Mrs. Joe Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Lunde and Mr. and Mrs. Selmer Solheim.

MENTION of the Solheims reminds us that Mrs. Solheim is to be a coffee hostess on Friday morning at her home.—She has invited 15 of her neighbors to come at 10 o'clock.

Mrs. George Mechling, president, conducted the regular meeting of the board of the Lincoln Woman's Club, held Monday morning at the YWCA, when the group named delegates who will represent the board at the annual state convention of the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs.

The board delegates to the convention, to be held in Lincoln April 7, 8 and 9, are Mrs. Mechling, Mrs. Glenn Mooberry and Mrs. H. A. Schoenthal.

Mrs. Frank V. Hamouz of Milligan, president of the state federation's fourth district, which will be hostess to the convention, has named a group of members of the Lincoln club to assist with arrangements for the convention.

The group includes: Mrs. Mechling, arrangements committee; Mrs. Mooberry, co-chairman of registration; Mrs. Schoenthal, co-chairman of credentials; Mrs. Frank O'Connell and Miss Allegra Wilkens, members of the election committee; Mrs. J. J. Grover, chairman of the information committee to be assisted by Mrs. E. Fritz Slagle and Mrs. Fred Cox.

Sorority Pledges Entertained

The Lincoln alumnae chapter of Delta Zeta entertained at a tea on Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Chapman, when the pledges of the active chapter of Delta Zeta on the Nebraska Wesleyan University campus were the honored guests.

In the picture, from left to right, are Mrs. Richard Young, president of the Lincoln Alumnae chapter, Miss Beth Rose-nau of Geneva, pledge trainer; Miss Jean Sauer, Imperial; Miss Joan Hummel of Sidney, Miss Phyllis Harvey of Wichita, Kan — all pledges — and Miss Nettie M. Clark (presiding at the table), faculty advisor.

THE STAR WELCOMES:

Mrs. Dwight Bonham, and her two daughters who are residing at 1545 Nemaha while her husband, an Army major, completes his assignment in Japan or Korea. The Bonhams returned recently from three years in Europe with the U.S. Army and came to Lincoln from Columbus, Ind.

Since the major's parents reside in Table Rock, and his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Hadsell live here in Lincoln, it seemed only natural to spend an indefinite interim here. Both Major and Mrs. Bonham are alumni of the University of Nebraska.

For the next several years, Mrs. Bonham will confine her civic-mindedness upon young Mary, a fifth grader at the Merle Beattie school, and Patricia, who was born three years ago in Heidelberg, Germany. An active participant in the PTA, Mrs. Bonham entered into the Girl Scouting activities among the occupation families in Germany.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Overgaard, and their three boys, David, a first grade pupil at Sheridan, 3½ year old Richard and Robert, just 4 months old, who are making their home in Lincoln at 2672 Sewell following Mr. Overgaard's recent discharge as a lieutenant in the Navy at Great Lakes, Ill.

The Overgaards are not really strangers to this neck of the woods, for Mr. Overgaard's brother, J. P. Overgaard and his family, live in Lincoln, and this young family lived in Sioux City, Ia., prior to entering the service.

Mr. and Mrs. Overgaard met while attending Iowa State Teachers College, in Cedar Falls. Mr. Overgaard is a Mason and a member of Kiwanis.

Hostess And Guest

In Lincoln for a brief visit as the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lessenhop is Miss Eleanor Campion (right) of Philadelphia, Pa., who arrived by plane Saturday evening.

On Monday Miss Campion was the incentive for a luncheon when Mrs. Lessenhop was hostess at Hotel Cornhusker. Luncheon places were arranged for 10.

From Lincoln Miss Campion, who is director of the Philadelphia Bibliographical Center, will go from here to Chicago where she will attend a library meeting.

Toastmistress Club Contest

The first in a series of speech contests was inaugurated Monday evening at the dinner-meeting of the Lincoln Toastmistress Club held at the Capital Hotel, when Mrs. Josephine Eyer contest chairman introduced the program speakers.

The annual contest series will determine the winner who will represent the club in the council contest, whose winner will then compete in the regional contest.

The first in a series of local contests. The regional winners will participate in the organization's international contest later this spring.

Mrs. Helen Calcaterra was named chairman of tellers for the series, and guest judges Monday evening were Cloud Smith, George David and William Kirtley. The program speakers included Miss Esteline Porter, "What's on Your Mind?"; Miss Ann Gustafson, "The Biggest Room"; and Mrs. James F. Weibert, "Behind The Scenes".

Miss Annie Laurie Smith presided at the meeting and reported on the radio broadcast on women's activities Monday afternoon when Mrs.

Friendship Club

Mrs. Chris Kuhner was hostess to the members of the Friendship Club Friday afternoon at her home with Mrs. A. A. Ault as assisting hostess.

The program featured a review of Nebraska as a territory and as a state, and the remainder of the afternoon was spent with games.

Luncheon

Bertha Johnston, moderator, Miss Ann Gustafson, Mrs. Josephine Eyer and Miss Helen Calcaterra told of the organization of the Toastmistress Club.

Board To Meet

The executive board of the Lincoln section of the National Council of Jewish Women will meet for a noon luncheon, Tuesday, at the Capital Hotel with Mrs. Charles Shire, president, presiding.

A brief review of the activities of the group will be held followed by a discussion of possible plans for aiding and cooperating with the Lancaster Association of Parents of Mentally Retarded Children in establishing special school classes for the children.

The Officers Wives Club of the Lincoln Naval Air Station will entertain at a 12:30 o'clock luncheon Friday at the Hotel Cornhusker honoring two new members of the group and also a member who will leave Lincoln in the near future.

Honored guests will be Mrs. E. A. Parker, who with her husband, the outgoing executive officer of the station, will leave soon to reside at Columbus, Ohio; Mrs. V. W. Randecker, wife of the new commanding officer at the naval air station; and Mrs. J. R. Thomson, wife of the new executive officer.

The afternoon hours will be spent informally with cards, and the group will hold a "white elephant" exchange. Hostesses will be Mrs. A. W. Bradbury and Mrs. Max Merritt.

1954 Passenger Car Production Could Hit 5 1/2 Million

3 Million By July

DETROIT (AP) Despite production cuts, the auto industry is rolling out passenger cars at a rate that could total 5 1/2 million units this year.

Considerable attention has been given recently to high new car inventories and cutbacks at the factory level. Getting less notice is the fact production schedules will move upward steadily during the coming months — barring something unforeseen now.

Output during the current quarter will be slightly under 1 1/2 million cars. The April-June quarter should be higher. That means that by June 30 at least three million cars will have been made.

Used Car Stocks
Probably of major importance right now in any attempt to appraise the prospects for selling that many new cars by midyear is the success the merchandisers have in reducing their used car stocks.

Just about every new car sale now being made involves a trade-in. Mostly it involves a high trade-in allowance, too. That doesn't look too cheerful for many retailers.

It has to be remembered, however, that millions of the nation's motorists never buy a new car. They buy their cars from used car dealers. And in unit volume, the normal used car market is much larger than the new car market.

Seasonal factors affect the used car market just as they do the new car business. Thus a sharp upturn in demand for used cars is expected during the second quarter along with a larger movement of factory-delivered units.

But no matter how you look at it automobile merchandising has become a trading business.

Site For Armory Slated For Talk

The National Guard Tuesday will again take up with city officials the question of a site for a new Guard Armory.

The Guard has previously showed a preference for the Rogers Tract at 33rd and O but the city has not agreed with this. Mayor Clark Jeary stated that the 33rd and O location should be left open at least until the City Auditorium question is completely settled.

There is also the possibility of the Guard taking a location on No. 10th Oak Creek park property across the street from the existing Naval Reserve Training Station.

Also, the No. 10th property is of interest to the State Fair Board which has mentioned the possibility of constructing a 4-lane drive between 10th and 14th as an entrance to a west opening to the Fairgrounds. The board is proposing to build a new bridge inside the grounds which has a bearing on an entrance there.

Soviet Quietly Trying To Get More Russians In U. N. Jobs

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) —The Kremlin has launched a quiet drive to get jobs for more Soviet citizens on the United Nations staff — particularly in the higher brackets.

At present, there are 22 Soviet citizens on the U. N. payroll at the main headquarters in Manhattan. The highest ranking Russian on the secretariat is Assistant Secretary General I. S. Tchernychev, head of the Department of Security Council Affairs and former Ambassador to Sweden.

Under the U. N. quota system of allotting jobs to the 60 member countries, the Russians are entitled to between 116 and 155 citizens in jobs above the clerical level. This has been the Russian quota since the U. N. began but Moscow never has chosen until now to make an attempt to fill it.

Main Problem
Persons familiar with the personnel situation here indicated that Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky is seeking more jobs but they do not know exactly how many places he wants or how many qualified Russians he has to fill the posts. The main problem for the Russians is to send over people who can speak English enough to handle the exacting posts here.

The quota system is worked out on the basis of the assessment paid by each nation. The United States, which pays more than any other country in the U. N., is entitled to a range of quota jobs between 332 and 443. Actually, the United States has 338 persons on the staff in places counted under the quota arrangement.

U. N. records show that two members of the Soviet bloc—

McWilliams Goes For Exam; Draft Charge Dismissed

Richard McWilliams, 19, of 1959 U. A. former Lincoln High School star football player, was taken Monday to Ft. Omaha for a physical examination and induction in the armed services following the dismissal in Federal Court of an indictment against the youth.

McWilliams was charged Jan. 22 in a grand jury indictment with failing to report for a physical on July 9, 1953, and for induction on Nov. 12, 1953.

The indictment's dismissal was requested by Asst. U. S. District Atty. Charles Thome with the permission of the U. S. attorney general.

Thome said he requested dismissal following interviews with the youth and talks with state and federal officials.

The purpose of the law is to insure recruitment under the Selective Service Act, not for the imprisonment of young men, he explained.

McWilliams was taken to the Omaha induction center by a deputy U. S. marshal.

Pretty Urges Clinical Workshop For Pastors

There is a great need for the establishment of a clinical workshop for pastors to train them for visitations to hospitals and other institutions, the Rev. L. C. Pretty told the members of the Rural Ministers Association Monday.

The Rev. Mr. Pretty, director-chaplain of the Nebraska Lutheran Social Service, said the churches were not doing enough in the field of visitation. Great medical aid is given in the institutions, he said, but there is a definite lack of trained persons to give spiritual aid.

$125,000 Fire Destroys South Sioux Elevator

Cause Is Unknown

SOUTH SIOUX CITY, Neb. (AP)—A spectacular fire destroyed an 89-foot elevator of the South Soo Grain Co. here Monday and the loss, not including the elevator's contents, was estimated at $125,000 by Samuel A. McMaster, general manager of the firm.

Fire Chief John Bateman said the fire apparently broke out on the ground floor of the frame structure. Flames roared upward and were visible for many miles. The fire was discovered about 5 a.m. and the elevator burned to the ground. The cause was not determined.

The loss included 6,000 bushels of oats, a quantity of corn, a jeep and other equipment.

Residents of nearby homes moved their belongings out and firemen spent much of their efforts on preventing flames from spreading. Business houses nearby also were threatened. One spectator said the sparks were "as big as baseballs."

A nearby concrete elevator, owned by the same firm housed 150,000 bushels of government corn, but it was not endangered.

South Sioux City issued an appeal to residents to use water sparingly while the hose lines were pouring water on the blaze. Ponca City, Homer and Dakota City firemen aided in fighting the fire.

Dr. Hoover said that the University is certain of at least 200 new students, of which 50 are veterans.

Two years ago, second-semester enrollment totaled 6,376 and three years ago, 7,200.

These enrollment figures, Dr. Hoover explained, are for full-time resident students. Part-time students, evening class enrollment and extension students are not included.

Giants' Thomson To Milwaukee In Six-Player Deal

Braves Give Four And Cash For New York Duo

MILWAUKEE (P)—The Milwaukee Braves Monday traded four players and tossed in an undisclosed amount of cash for Outfielder Bobby Thomson and second-string Catcher Sam Calderone of the New York Giants.

General Manager John Quinn said the Braves gave lefthanded Pitchers Johnny Antonelli and Don Liddle, Edna St. Claire, a utility catcher and Bill Klaus, a rookie from Toledo, for Thomson and Calderone.

The trade, completed in New York, was the second in which the Braves have been involved this winter. They traded veteran Sid Gordon and Pitcher Max Surkont to Pittsburgh late in December for infielder Danny O'Connell.

"We hated to give up both Antonelli and Liddle," Quinn said, "but we had to have a hard-hitting outfielder and were desperate for a catcher to back up Del Crandall."

"We had five or six meetings with the Giants before coming to an agreement, but think now that we have solved our problems."

Thomson, 30, is expected to take over the leftfield post vacated by Gordon's trade to the Pirates. The veteran outfielder, 30, batted .288 last summer, hitting 26 home runs and batting in 106. Calderone, 28, appeared in only 35 games with the Giants last year, hitting .222.

The Braves' decision to give up Antonelli, to whom they paid a $65,000 bonus in June, 1949, when he was graduated from high school, came as a surprise. The youngster posted only a 12-12 won-lost record last summer, but his 3.19 earned run average was fifth best in the National League. He struck out 131 batters and walked 71 in 173 innings, allowing 167 hits and 83 runs.

Liddle turned in a 3.07 earned run average for the Braves last year, his first in the major leagues, but was used in only 129 innings. The little southpaw had been figured for relief and spot assignments again this summer. He had a 7-6 record, with 63 strikeouts, 55 walks and 119 hits for the season.

St. Claire had a .200 average at the plate in 33 games and had been on the trading block for some time. Klaus, a left-handed hitting infielder, batted .275 in 144 games with the Braves' Toledo farm club in the American Association last year.

In their desperate need for

Thomson Pleased

NEW YORK (P)—"If I had to be traded I can't think of any place I'd rather go."

That was Bobby Thomson's first reaction Monday night when he learned of the deal which sent him from the New York Giants to the Milwaukee Braves in exchange for four players and cash.

"I really haven't had time to think much about it," Thomson admitted. "I was on the golf course when my wife got the first call. I still haven't heard from the Braves."

"I'm in real good shape. I go out to the golf course every day to keep my legs in shape but I don't have to worry much about my weight. I always figure I'm a little underweight. I like to weigh about 197 when I'm playing. I weigh 193 now but I always put on a little about this time of year."

pitchers, the Giants were forced to give up one of the Polo Grounds' all-time baseball heroes.

It was Thomson who blasted the ninth-inning three-run homer in 1951 which gave the Giants the National League pennant in a playoff with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Giants, in a great comeback, had finished the campaign all even with the Dodgers, climaxing an uphill surge that overcame a 13½ game Brooklyn lead.

The two teams split the first two games of the best-of-three playoff and Giant hopes died when the Dodgers rallied for three runs in the eighth to take a 4-1 lead in the final game.

In the ninth, the Giants closed the gap to 4-2 with singles by Al Dark and Don Mueller and a double by Whitey Lockman.

Then, with one out, Thomson caught hold of Ralph Branca's second pitch and banged it into the lower leftfield stands, breaking up the ball game.

The dramatic feat was voted the sports thrill of 1951 by sports writers and broadcasters participating in the Associated Press poll.

OU's Royal Given Miss State Post

STARKVILLE, Miss. (P)—Darrel Royal, former star split T quarterback at Oklahoma Monday was named head football coach at Mississippi State. He succeeds Murray Warmath who recently accepted a similar job at Minnesota.

The selection of Royal, coach of the Edmonton Eskimos in the Canadian Professional League last season, was announced by President Ben Hilburn and C. R. (Dud) Noble, athletic director.

Royal, considered one of the ranking authorities on the split T offense, served as an offensive backfield coach for Mississippi State in 1952. He helped Warmath install the split-T at State.

Warmath resigned last Friday to accept the Minnesota post. The new Mississippi State coach began his coaching career as backfield coach under Beattie Peppers at North Carolina State in 1950.

In 1951, Royal moved to Tulsa and served in the same capacity. When Warmath took over at Mississippi State in 1952, one of his first choices for his staff was Royal.

As a player at Oklahoma, Royal played under Coach Bud Wilkinson and helped lead the Sooners into the national spotlight.

Royal climaxed his career as a player by quarterbacking Oklahoma to a 35-0 victory over Louisiana State University in the 1950 Sugar Bowl.

While serving as offensive backfield coach at State, Royal had a hand in grooming ace Maroon Quarterback Jackie Parker for his role in the Split-T offense.

This was Parker's first introduction to the new offense and to the quarterback position.

When the season was over, Parker had established a new southeastern conference scoring record of 120 points and was the nation's leading scorer. He also was selected the SEC's most valuable player in 1952 and 53.

In 1952, the Maroons scored 225 points as they compiled a 5-4 record, their best record since 1947. The season record included LSU, Arkansas State and North Texas State. Two of the losses were to Tennessee and Mississippi by one touchdown.

Royal rated one of the nation's outstanding young coaches, is a native of Hollis, Okla.

A. M. Voss, Lincoln was re-elected president. Harry Foth of Ord was elected vice president and Mills, who is a fireman in Lincoln, was re-elected secretary-treasurer as 14 entries opened play. They were divided into two groups with the four high from each group going into the championship flight and the remainder into Class B. The standings:

| GROUP 2           |   |   |   |

| Holstein, Axtell  | 1 | 6 | 1 |

A general manager and a field manager had been secured as soon as possible as the best available men for such jobs were quickly going out of circulation. Whitey Wietelmann was hired as field manager and Bill Herring was signed as general manager, two choices that were roundly applauded in baseball circles.

To get the best possible talent to go with the 11 players the Chiefs' own, Herring had to get busy immediately. Stellar baseball timber is mowed down in a hurry during those December and January months, you know.

Perhaps, it is the fact that Herring and Wietelmann were hired that causes a complacent "aw, we're a cinch to have baseball" air. Maybe it's the idea that several players have been hired that causes a complacent "aw, we're a cinch to have baseball" air. Maybe it's the idea that several players have been hired that causes a complacent "aw, we're a cinch to have baseball" air.

The idea that baseball here is a cinch for 1954 might have been born last fall at the Western League meetings in Colorado Springs.

Senator Edwin C. Johnson, the president of the league, was taking a poll to see what teams would definitely commit themselves for entry in 1954. Lincoln was said to be on mighty shaky ground and Albuquerque, N. M., Salt Lake City, Utah, and Topeka, Kans., (among others) had representatives standing by like vultures to bid for a spot in the League if the Chiefs bowed out.

The Lincoln representatives arose and told Senator Johnson: "Count Lincoln in!"

"I'm mighty glad of that," smiled the president. "We in the league are mighty proud of Lincoln."

That move in itself was a gamble on the Chiefs' faith in their own baseball fans. If Lincoln hadn't given an assuring vote, Western League baseball here would have been lost way back in October.

The Chiefs have gambled for you and crawled far out on a limb. It is up to you fans to justify their faith in your desire to keep Western League baseball at Sherman Field.

Without that Board of Directors, believe you me, there would have been no baseball at Sherman Field in 1953, nor would a chance now be available for baseball there next summer.

The Chiefs desperately need your help.

A general manager and a field manager had been secured as soon as possible as the best available men for such jobs were quickly going out of circulation. Whitey Wietelmann was hired as field manager and Bill Herring was signed as general manager, two choices that were roundly applauded in baseball circles.

To get the best possible talent to go with the 11 players the Chiefs' own, Herring had to get busy immediately. Stellar baseball timber is mowed down in a hurry during those December and January months, you know.

Perhaps, it is the fact that Herring and Wietelmann were hired that causes a complacent "aw, we're a cinch to have baseball" air. Maybe it's the idea that several players have been hired that causes a complacent "aw, we're a cinch to have baseball" air.

The idea that baseball here is a cinch for 1954 might have been born last fall at the Western League meetings in Colorado Springs.

Senator Edwin C. Johnson, the president of the league, was taking a poll to see what teams would definitely commit themselves for entry in 1954. Lincoln was said to be on mighty shaky ground and Albuquerque, N. M., Salt Lake City, Utah, and Topeka, Kans., (among others) had representatives standing by like vultures to bid for a spot in the League if the Chiefs bowed out.

The Lincoln representatives arose and told Senator Johnson: "Count Lincoln in!"

"I'm mighty glad of that," smiled the president. "We in the league are mighty proud of Lincoln."

That move in itself was a gamble on the Chiefs' faith in their own baseball fans. If Lincoln hadn't given an assuring vote, Western League baseball here would have been lost way back in October.

The Chiefs have gambled for you and crawled far out on a limb. It is up to you fans to justify their faith in your desire to keep Western League baseball at Sherman Field.

Without that Board of Directors, believe you me, there would have been no baseball at Sherman Field in 1953, nor would a chance now be available for baseball there next summer.

The Chiefs desperately need your help.

Terry Brennan Named Notre Dame Head Coach

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN SOUTH BEND, Ind. (P)—Terence Patrick Brennan, a determined 25-year-old Irish lad only two seasons out of prep coaching ranks where he earned a top-notch reputation, Monday was named Notre Dame's head football coach.

The tousle-haired, fresh-scrubbed appearing Brennan becomes the youngest head coach ever appointed by a major collegiate football power. He signed a 3-year contract at a reported $12,000 annually.

Terry succeeds Frank Leahy, who Sunday announced his retirement because of ill health. He had coached the Irish to six unbeaten seasons, including 1953, since coming to Notre Dame in 1941 at the age of 32 from Boston College.

Leahy had been warned by his physicians that another attack of pancreatitis — a severe stomach disorder — such as hospitalized him midway in the 1953 season, could prove fatal. He now intends to take an extended vacation and then enter private business, rumored to be a beer distributorship in Florida.

Brennan was one of Leahy's proteges as an inspirational-type halfback from 1945 through 1948 and as an assistant coach last year. As a player he is best remembered for a 97-yard opening kickoff touchdown run against Army in 1947.

After graduating with a philosophy major in 1949, Brennan became a football coach at Mount Carmel High School in Chicago and guided his teams to an unprecedented three successive city championships.

Brennan, who will be 26 on June 11, completed his studies in law on the side at DePaul University in Chicago.

Brennan's success at Mount Carmel, where he was president, distinguished him as one of the most promising young coaches in America.

As a Leahy assistant, Brennan was in charge of the freshmen—the first actual freshman coach Notre Dame ever had. He also was an instructor on business law at the University.

When Brennan returned to Notre Dame on the football staff, there was much speculation that he was being groomed to succeed Leahy. But that time was not expected for another three years when Leahy's current contract expired.

Two years ago, Brennan was considered for the head coaching job of the Chicago Cardinals, a professional team, but eventually was passed up because of his age. At that time Brennan said: "Why, those pro fellows would be tucking me to bed at night."

Recently, Terry turned down the job at Marquette University as successor to Lisle Blackbourn. He did this after talking to Notre Dame officials, who presumably foresaw Leahy's retirement. Brennan reportedly was notified of his appointment at Notre Dame three days ago, indicating Leahy had made his decision to retire at that time.

At Mount Carmel, prep sports writers recalled Brennan as "an inspirational leader with a very level disposition."

"All he had to do was order his players to run through brick wall, and they would do it," said one writer.

Five of Terry's Mount Carmel star players became Notre Dame first stringers and will be back in action.

Saxton, who was a 5-1 favorite, had his own way against the heavier Laurent. The Brooklyn welterweight belted the middleweight with combinations and moved around as he pleased.

The bout was stopped by Referee Ray Miller, who said the Frenchman had no defense against the fast punching Saxton.

Lyman holds No. 9 after a two point defeat by Class B Bridgeport, a squad which is in the thick of the battle among B schools in the west.

Undeclared Clark stays in tenth, Cairo falls to a tie with Clark after the Wood River loss. The Cairo record is sufficiently sound to survive one defeat.

Chester, Red Willow and Hampton fell from the D ratings while Clarkson collapsed in Class C.

One team which is not in the ratings but may be on the move is Alvo, a tournament team last spring and a joint contender with Murdock for Cass County honors next week.

Chiefs Have Faith In Their Fans

To be or not to be in the Western League.

Old Willie the Shake's perennial question falls this week on the baseball conscience of Lincoln.

At this crucial now-or-never point, it becomes vital for Mr. Baseball Fan to digest some startling facts, thus:

(1) If the $25,000 in additional stockholders is not raised and Lincoln loses its franchise, there is a probability that Western League baseball will never again return to the Capital City.

(2) If the necessary funds are collected and Lincoln does adequately in 1954, as all indications point, the parent Milwaukee Braves will be wanting either a full working agreement or full ownership in 1955. Before that advantageous relationship is reached, however, it will be a case of Lincoln fans showing the Milwaukee brass the importance of baseball to this little community.

Step by step, the directors of the Lincoln Baseball Club have advanced carefully along a well-planned trail. All of the time, their decisions have been based on the faith in Lincoln baseball fans.

"Why didn't the drive start sooner, maybe last September when baseball interest was zooming?" you ask.

The Board had that thought in mind when it called a meeting Sept. 18. At that gathering, it was decided to draft a letter asking the stockholders for a poll on the situation. A total of 492 stockholders voted in favor of launching a drive to sell more stock; 148 wanted to solicit outright donations and 34 gave other ideas. It was decided to start the stock drive, Nov. 2.

A total of $10,064 in Lincoln Chiefs' stock has been sold during the current drive. Treasurer Pat Minier announces.

The drive committee, at a meeting Monday, noted that interest had increased with the warmer weather and realization by many fans of the seriousness of the Chiefs' financial plight.

This was halted when the Milwaukee Braves asked the Chiefs to withhold the drive until after the Atlanta, Ga., baseball meetings in early December. The Braves front office was still on the fence as to its 1954 plans at Lincoln.

A. L. (Pat) Minier and Bob Suter represented the Chiefs' Board of Directors at Atlanta and Emmett Jung was there for the Lincoln Civic Baseball Association and the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce. Just to show how important baseball is to

Rocca-Lee Ducats Going Fast-Adam

Tickets are moving at a fast clip for the Argentina Rocca-Sky Hi Lee wrestling match at the Fairgrounds Thursday. Promoter Adam Krieger said today.

"I guess it's because everyone has heard of Rocca and Lee," Krieger commented. "They are two of the most colorful wrestlers I have even seen."

Rocca, whose main forte is acrobatics and unusual use of his feet, will be pitted against a 6-foot 9-inch, 280-pound Canadian giant who is ranked as one of wrestling's strongest men.

Tarzan Hewitt, 265-pound New Yorker, meets Ex-Husker Mike DiBiase in one prelim. Jack Flood, Irish favorite, faces the Mexican champion, Roberto Pico, in the other.

District Meet Sites Given By NSAA

Nebraska School Activities Association officials Monday announced the sites and assignments for 1954 high school district basketball tournaments and in doing so caused a few raised eyebrows in state basketball circles.

Perhaps the number one surprise was the announcement that the rugged Omaha Class A district would involve only seven Gate City schools instead of the traditional eight this year.

Creighton Prep, a fast-improving Omaha team, will compete at Fremont this year with Fremont, Hastings, Norfolk, Columbus and Grand Island.

This may be the first step in a move to start a rotation of Omaha schools whereby each year one of the Gate City clubs would go to the Fremont district.

Another innovation this year, which was expected in many quarters, was the naming of Lincoln as a tournament site in two classes.

For the first time in more than a decade, Lincoln will be host to a Class A district which includes Nebraska City, Falls City, Beatrice, Fairbury, Lincoln High and Northeast. The district tournament will be played at Nebraska Wesleyan's new Ira Taylor gym.

Wesleyan will also host a Class C district meet featuring Syracuse, Beaver Crossing, Ceresco, Louisville, Milford, Peru, Ralston, Uteka, Valparaiso and Weeping Water.

Another brow-lifter was the naming of Wahoo as the site where all three of Lincoln's Class B schools will compete. Last year College View, Cathedral and Teachers College High Schools went to separate sites.

This year's Wahoo meet will be a return trip for Cathedral but new to College View, which was at Auburn last season, and to Teachers, a York entrant the past few seasons.

Class C and D district meets will be held Feb. 22-27. The Class A and B district and Class C and D playoffs will be March 1-6. The state carnival at Lincoln will be March 10-13.

Araujo Wins By Decision

BOSTON (U)—Lightweight George Araujo, 137 1/4, of Providence, R. I., survived a fourth-round knockdown Monday night to bang out an unanimous 10-round boxing decision over Curley Monroe, 138, of Worcester, in a wild brawl at Mechanics Building.

Araujo reeled around the ring for most of the fourth session but the over-eager and less experienced Monroe couldn't put him down again.

Then Araujo came back to floor Monroe four times while opening a comeback campaign aimed at gaining another title match with champion Jimmy Carter.

Tennis Champ

SYDNEY (U)—Outsider Mervyn Rose won the Australian Tennis championship Monday in a tournament which ended with a growing feeling among players and officials that the event should be held a month earlier.

Classen Eligible Outside NIAA

OMAHA (U)—University of Omaha President Milo Bail said Monday Don Claussen, center on the university basketball team, would be eligible for the school's remaining games this season except against member schools of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Dr. Bail said he based his decision on a recommendation of the university's faculty athletic committee.

The announcement follows a ruling by Aubrey Givens of Doane College, chairman of District 11 of the NIAA, that Claussen cannot play in future games against association members.

NAIA rules state that no athlete can compete during more than four school years, even though he may compete only ## one semester during a year. The University of Omaha athletic policy is that no student will be permitted more than eight semesters or four years of competition.

Claussen is now entering his eighth semester at the University of Omaha, but only his seventh semester of athletic competition.

Senate Votes Reimbursement-Fund Cut To Ag Prop Program

Farm-State Senators O.K. Slash

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Monday tentatively knocked $95 million dollars out of a House-approved bill for $741,548,788 to restore the solvency of the government's farm price support program.

The measure now goes to a Senate-House conference where the full amount requested by President Eisenhower may be restored—if the Agriculture Department can justify its original figures.

As passed by the Senate, the bill reimburses the department's Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) for $245,900,917 in losses sustained on farm price props and other operations.

Even farm state senators went along with the stiff cut recommended by Sens. Williams (R-Id.) and Anderson (D-Mo.), who accused the CCC of using rush tactics in an attempt to push the measure through without changes.

Not Convinced

Passage came by voice vote after several senators said they were not convinced that the CCC had proved its losses were as great as the sum voted by the House.

The House passed the bill last week in a hurry-up move to give new working capital to the CCC, which reported that its $6.4 billion dollar spending authority has been used up. President Eisenhower has asked Congress to raise the limit to eight billions.

Before the bill passed, Senate GOP leaders said they got assurances that the reduced amount would permit the CCC to continue to function for a few weeks.

The measure was first called up on the floor last Friday under threat that the CCC would send out telegrams shutting down the price support program that night if it were not passed immediately.

Not Out of Money

Several senators protested this procedure heatedly and insisted the CCC was not practically out of money, as it contended.

Senate leaders then announced they had obtained Agriculture Department agreement not to send out the telegrams pending Senate action Monday.

As presented by the administration and passed by the House, the bill reimbursed the CCC for $741,548,788 of losses divided this way—$609,930,933 on price support operations, $129,553,795 under the international wheat agreement, and $2,064,060 on eradication of foot-and-mouth disease.

Anderson and Williams left the latter two items intact. But they argued that the CCC's supporting data actually accounted for only $114,283,062 in losses on price support operations.

Anderson, a former secretary of agriculture, and Williams declared they were not trying to handicap the CCC, but insisted the Senate should take a much more careful look at the CCC's figures before voting the full sum asked.

35 Listed As Dead In C-47 Crash

TOKYO (Tuesday) (INS) — All 35 American servicemen aboard a C-47 Comandore courier plane which ditched and sank in the icy waters of Japan's Tsugaru Straits Monday were listed as dead today by the Air Force.

Air-sea rescue operations were called off and the Air Force said it was "positive" none of the 30 military passengers and five crewmen survived.

The victims were not identified pending notification of next of kin but many of them were believed to have been married men stationed on the northern island of Hokkaido who had spent the week-end with their families in Tokyo.

Open Chutes

The Air Force operates a courier run for such men because a housing shortage on Hokkaido keeps many military families separated.

Pilots of rescue planes reported finding open parachutes on the water, indicating that some of the passengers aboard the ill-fated plane leaped to almost certain death rather than risk the open sea ditching.

The parachutes were found floating near a big oil slick. Air Force experts said no one could have lived longer than 90 minutes in the icy water.

Paul Boslau, 10, takes a good look at the needle as Dr. Kenneth Fijan gives him a tuberculin skin test shot. Paul, son of Mrs. Geraldine Boslau of 1508 So. 22nd, was one of a group of fifth graders at Prescott School to be given the tests as part of tuberculosis control program in the Lincoln schools. Mrs. Rowena Lytle, substitute nurse, assisted Dr. Fijan.

More than 1,500 fifth graders will receive the tests during February and March. The tuberculin test tells the doctor whether germs that cause the disease have ever lived in the individual's body. If there is no reaction from the shot after two or three days, the germ causing TB is not living or has not lived in the body. If a reaction is found, it indicates that the person has been exposed to an active case of TB at some time.

Steer Stampedes In West Lincoln; Shot By Sheriff

A 900-pound steer stampeded through parts of West Lincoln and a trailer court near the Capitol Beach area Monday before being dropped by Sheriff Merle Karnopp with a 30-30 rifle.

The sheriff said the animal broke loose from the pens of the American Stores Packing Co., at 320 N. and was pursued to West Lincoln and back to the Capitol Beach area by the packing company men. The animal was shot at the request of the company when attempts to corral the Hereford steer failed.

Karnopp said the animal apparently caused no damage.

The steer was shot at a spot near the Capitol Beach lake after it was driven from the residential area.

GIs In Korea Would Take Monroe Without An Act; She's Cool To Idea

TOKYO (Tuesday) (INS)—Joe DiMaggio and his actress bride, Marilyn Monroe, who were mobbed upon arrival at Tokyo Airport Monday, cast a chill today on pleas of GIs in Korea that Marilyn visit them and "take the frost off these bunkers."

"How can we go to Korea?" DiMaggio asked newsmen. "Marilyn doesn't have an act."

The response across the Sea of Japan from the troops in Korea was prompt:

"What does he mean 'act'? It's Marilyn we want. She doesn't need an act."

Still On Honeymoon

Marilyn, stressing that she was still on her honeymoon, said she wanted to visit military hospitals in Japan and see all of the country.

"I'd love to go to Korea," she said, "and have been waiting for a long time, but I'm afraid I won't be able to make it this trip."

Marilyn and Joe were trapped aboard their Pan American Clipper at Haneda Airport for 45 minutes by a hysterical crowd of 5,000, mostly Japanese baby-sitters.

The mob broke through Japanese police lines and the couple could not leave the plane until U.S. Air Force guards reinforced the police.

A Japanese police official said: "If she had tried to go through that mob, they would probably have torn all her clothes off."

Reds Say Russian 'Seized' Soviet Official Given Asylum By Americans

(TOKYO Tuesday) (AP)—An American source said that a missing Russian agent in Japan has been granted U. S. asylum but his Soviet colleagues charged he was "seized" to provoke Russia.

The disclosure and the charge broke some of the mystery surrounding Yuri Alexandrovich Rastvorov, who was reported to be in on the secrets of the Communists' top spy ring in the Far East.

Rastvorov, second secretary of Russia's mission to Japan, vanished Jan. 24 just before he was to leave for Moscow.

A reliable American source said Rastvorov asked for political asylum, was granted it and was almost certainly out of Japan—presumably at the big U. S. base of Okinawa or on his way to the United States.

S. I. Rumov, spokesman of the Russian mission in Tokyo, called a press conference from which American newsmen were excluded and issued a statement which charged:

Rastvorov has been seized and is being detained by the American espionage organ in Japan with the aim of provocation of the Soviet Union.

U. S. military and diplomatic officials declined comment on the charge or on the possible whereabouts of Rastvorov.

In Washington, President Eisenhower's press secretary said "nobody in the White House has any idea" as to the Russian's whereabouts. James C. Hagerty, the secretary, declined to say whether other governmental agencies, such as the Central Intelligence Agency, might know anything about Rastvorov.

The Russian statement, in support of the kidnapping charge, asserted Rastvorov "was very happy at the prospect of returning home" and had shopped for gifts for his wife and daughter in Russia.

Then, the statement noted, he mysteriously vanished during a last minute shopping tour after which stories began appearing "regarding the special interest which the American espionage division had in Rastvorov."

Rastvorov was known to be an intelligence agent with the Russian mission, a group without official status, since the signing of the Japanese peace treaty which Russia refused to ratify.

He had appeared frequently at the Tokyo Tennis Club which numbers U. S. officers among its members.

City Power Survey Okay Is Delayed For One Week

A resolution directing the mayor to enter into an agreement with Pay E. Smith, consulting electrical engineer from Omaha, for a power survey and report has been held up one week by the City Council.

The resolution, recommended by the City Power Advisory Board, was held at the request of Councilman Pat Ash who said he had several questions he wanted to ask before approving the move. Ash commended the board for its work and emphasized that the delay was not criticism of their work.

In explaining the need for the study, Board Chairman R. E. Campbell explained that the city's power load is now divided about 25 per cent for the city and 75 per cent for Consumers Public Power District. He noted that under terms of laws under which it was established, Consumers will become a city operation in 1972 when its original debt is paid.

Radio Pioneer Armstrong Is Dead At 63

NEW YORK (AP)—Maj. Edwin H. Armstrong, pioneer electrical wizard who put radio in the nation's living rooms, plunged 10 stories to his death Monday.

He left behind a heartbroken wife of 30 years, bitterly regretting their recent estrangement and apologizing to her as "the dearest thing in the whole world to me."

"God keep you and the Lord have mercy on my soul," the 63-year-old Armstrong wrote some time before he went out the window of his expensive 13th floor apartment on the East River. His body landed on a third floor balcony, where it lay unnoticed for hours.

Behind him in his 52nd Street apartment he left mementos of a lifetime of experimentation that made him one of the world's greatest radio inventors—diplomats, degrees and awards commemorating his brilliance.

Armstrong was the prime developer, although not the inventor, of FM—frequency modulation—the static free, high fidelity radio broadcasting. The sound on all TV programs is FM.

In 1940, the National Association of Manufacturers cited his various adaptations of radio circuits, including invention of the now standard superheterodyne receiver, and said these "made radio broadcasting feasible."

His innovations—many carried over into the rapidly blossoming field of TV—were worth millions, and Armstrong died a wealthy man.

Armstrong's wife, the former Marian MacInnis, has been living with a sister in Granby, Conn., for about a month. The Armstrongs had no children.

Diller Building Group To Tour Lincoln Schools

LINCOLN, Neb.—The building committee of the Diller school group to Lincoln Tuesday morning to begin a tour of new elementary schools.

Headed by Clarence Wolken, the committee together with the Diller school board members and representatives of the State Department of Instruction spent Monday discussing steps necessary to replace the Diller school building which was destroyed by flames Saturday.

Even before the blaze, plans had been under way to replace the 60-year-old frame structure. Need for a new elementary school arose with the plan to consolidate rural school districts in this vicinity in order to build a Class 6 high school, separate from the grade school.

School Board President Max Logan said classes for the Diller students would be resumed as soon as the necessary books and equipment can be maintained. Buildings in Diller will be used for class rooms, he said.

Logan emphasized that a number of high schools in the area had offered spare equipment to the Diller School.

Cause of the flames which completely destroyed the building has not yet been determined, Logan declared.

No Renewed Hostilities In Korea Seen

SEOUL, (Tuesday) (INS)—An announcement that an American jet pilot shot down a Russian-built MIG-15 jet fighter 10 days ago caused no fear in Seoul today that the Communists would renew hostilities in Korea.

A high level source said Communist Chinese and North Korean forces are not in position to launch an all-out ground attack and apparently have no immediate aggressive designs.

The Far East Air Force in Tokyo confirmed an Air Force announcement in Washington of the shooting down of the Red jet but gave no additional details.

Protecting Bomber

Both the Tokyo and Washington announcements said the MIG-15 was downed by American jets while protecting an RB-45 reconnaissance bomber against an attack by MIG-15 fighters.

The announcements said the fight took place near Sokto Island, about 45 miles north of the 38th parallel "over international waters" and outside the Korean military demarcation line.

The Air Force described the formation of MIGs as a "large one" but did not disclose the number of planes engaged on each side.

In Seoul, the U. S. Fifth Air Force said it would produce the American pilot who bagged the MIG and other eyewitnesses of the incident when approval was received from Washington.

The RB-45 was identified as a four engine jet bomber carrying a crew of four. The Air Force said it had been engaged in reconnaissance missions for about a year.

School Enrollment To Jump 1 Million Per Year—Ashby

Dr. Lyle Ashby, associate director of the National Education Association, said before the Lincoln Teachers Association Monday night that for the next five years enrollment of grade school students will be increased a million a year.

Ashby in his speech to 125 teachers at Lincoln High School said "by 1960 we will have 10,000,000 more grade school students than we had in 1950."

To take care of the increased number of children, he said, it will be necessary to build eight 12-room school buildings every day for ten years.

"Responsibilities are growing for teachers," Dr. Ashby said. "We must organize ourselves as a real profession to take care of these growing needs."

He said compared to 1939, teachers are a little bit less well off compared to other people despite higher wages and prices.

Top Probers Start Hunt For Possible Coffee Market 'Corner'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government Monday sent top investigators to New York in an effort to find out whether a "corner" on the market was responsible for rocketing coffee prices to more than a dollar a pound in some cities.

Chairman Edward F. Howrey of the Federal Trade Commission (FTC), announcing the start of the inquiry, promised a swift crackdown on any trade law violations that might come to light.

Howrey said the commission will keep in close touch with the Justice Department during the investigation.

Hearings Set

Simultaneously, a 5-man Senate Banking Subcommittee voted to begin public hearings next Monday in a separate phase of the hubbub over coffee prices which led to some talk of a housewives' boycott against the brew.

Chairman Beall (R-MD) said the subcommittee will conduct hearings in Washington, New York and "anywhere else necessary to learn the reason for this swift rise" in coffee prices.

Beall said the subcommittee wants to find out whether prices have gone higher in the United States than in other countries because of any "discriminatory practices."

First witnesses, he said, will include officials of the New York Coffee Exchange, coffee brokers, and officials of big consumer outlets such as chain stores.

Ag Group Study

Serving with Beall on the subcommittee are Senators Bush (R-Conn.), Payne (R-Me), Douglas (D-Ill) and Frear (D-Del).

A third inquiry group will swing into action Tuesday when the Senate Agriculture Committee begins hearings on a bill by Sen. Gillette (D-Ia) aimed at setting up federal supervision over coffee trading.

FTC Chairman Howrey told newsmen a staff of the agency's best investigators began asking questions Monday in New York coffee marts.

Noting that President Eisenhower has ordered the FTC to make a full-scale investigation of the price hikes, Howrey said the agency's inquiry staff includes its "top investigator," Harry Babcock, along with "our three top economists, two of our top trial lawyers, and as many investigators as Babcock wants."

Landis Files For Nebraska School Board

Frank E. Landis, 40, Lincoln insurance executive and attorney, has filed for election to the State Board of Education to represent the First District. The board was authorized by a constitutional amendment in November, 1952, and established by the 1953 legislature. The First District includes Lancaster, Cass, Otoe, Johnson, Nemaha, Pawnee and Richardson counties.

Landis said he believed that the state school system is facing profound problems.

Teacher Shortage

"Educational opportunity and costs must be studied," he said, "and the shortage of capable and well-qualified teachers must be overcome."

Landis is executive vice president of the Nebraska Fire and Auto Insurance Co., with which he has been associated since 1951.

He started his business career as an attorney in the firm of Prince and Prince in Grand Island in 1938. He served as attorney for the State Insurance Department during 1941-42. At that time, he volunteered for the U.S. Navy. He was separated from the service as a lieutenant on Jan. 1, 1946.

With Surety Company

Landis returned to the State Insurance Department where he served as assistant director until 1948. From 1948 until 1951, he was vice president and general manager of a Lincoln surety company.

He was educated in the Seward public schools, Hastings College and the University of Nebraska. He won his A.B. degree from the University in 1935, his Bachelor of Laws and his Master's in 1937.

Landis is married and has four children, three boys and one girl, all attending the Lincoln public schools.

He is a member of First-Plymouth Congregational Church, Nebraska Bar Association, Rotary, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Elks and several insurance organizations.

'Lost Tax' Figures Delayed 2 Weeks

Lancaster Co. Atty. Frederick Wagener estimates his report to the Board of Commissioners on the "lost gas tax" figures will be delayed about two weeks.

Wagener, who expected to make his report and recommendations to the Commissioners this Tuesday, explained he is waiting for a final report from the county-hired auditor.

The county attorney is studying the possibility of bringing suit to recover gas tax funds reportedly lost to the county as a result of State Treasurer Frank Heintze's possible failure to use the latest possible distribution formula.

The tax "loss" to the county, reportedly upwards of $50,000, was caused by the use of 1940 census and 1949 registration figures until October, 1953, when 1950 census and last year's registration was used in the distribution formula.

Liquor, Beer Tax Revenue Increases

January state liquor and beer tax revenue showed an increase over both the preceding month and the corresponding month a year ago.

Last month's collections amounted to $199,293, compared to $188,427 in December and $141,929 in January, 1953.

An increase in hard liquor tax collections accounted for the gain. Beer tax revenue was down, compared to January of last year.

Last month's hard liquor tax collections amounted to $127,859, compared to $68,603 in January a year ago.

Beer revenue last month was $49,116, compared to $56,436 in January, 1953.

Commission members did not consider the gain in liquor tax collections last month particularly significant. One large manufacturer buying a supply of stamps for coming weeks could account for such a fluctuation, they explained.
